INQUEST INTO GRAHAM'S DEATH

Nearby Residents Testify As to His Habits and Movements Just Prior to Finding of Body.

An inquest into the death of Richard Graham, who was found murdered near the village of Marlborough on November 3, was held Thursday before Coroner George Butler of Marlborough at the office of the surrogate. The examination was conducted by Assistant District Attorney Murray. At the morning session several witnesses were sworn, including Mrs. Van Hovenberg and Loughran, who performed the autopsy upon the body on November 4. The autopsy which was performed by the doctors at Marlborough showed the body of deceased in a healthy condition and that death was due to hemorrhage by cutting the external jugular vein. The body, which was found in the deep ravine below the Marlborough Hotel property at Marlborough in what is known as the "sucker hole," was discovered by a son of Coroner Butler and two companions who were hunting and accidentally came across the body lying at the edge of the creek which flows through the ravine. Graham was taken when the body was found and his clothes, blood stained, were some forty or fifty feet away. The arms of the dead man had been carefully folded across his chest.

Dennis Egan, who conducts a hotel at Newburgh, stated that Graham had come to his hotel and had stayed there on October 26, 27 and 28, and that he then left. Graham had been a frequent guest at the hotel but Egan knew nothing about the man except that he was a farm hand and was a guest at the hotel on occasions. Samuel Baxter, who employed Graham as a farm hand, resides about two miles west of the village of Marlborough. Some two years ago Graham came to Marlborough to work. He understood Graham was born in New York and had resided at Yorkville prior to his coming to Marlborough. On the Baxter farm Graham lived in a two story shack about fifty yards from the Baxter home. There were two rooms on the ground floor and one upstairs. Graham had been at Marlborough for years, first coming to pick berries. On October 20, Baxter paid Graham the last money, a sum of about $7 or $8. Baxter said he believed Graham had saved money and probably had as much as $200 as a result of his season's work picking berries. About December 4 a man named "Dick" came to see Graham and stayed over night. Graham was quiet and was a drinking man.

Wednesday morning prior to his death Graham complained that there was someone in his shack and Baxter went to investigate and found no one. At night Graham again came and told Baxter that the "fellows" were in the place again and that they had been there all night the night before. Mr. Baxter said he took a light and investigated but found no one and placed a lock on the door, telling Graham that things would be all right and for him to go to bed. Thursday Mr. Baxter's daughter saw Graham in the village. Graham did not work that day and when Mr. Baxter went to the shack he found everything in order and believed that Graham had gone to the village. Saturday morning the body was found about two and half miles from the Baxter farm.

Edna McCune, who now resides in Newburgh, testified that on November 1, the night Graham probably was killed, she came to Marlborough by bus and did not notice any strangers in the bus. She was alone with the driver when the bus arrived at Marlborough.

William Baxter, who resides on the Samuel Baxter farm and occupies a shack near that of Graham, said that Wednesday, October 31, was the last he saw Graham. It was in the afternoon. He thought Graham did not sleep in the shack that night.

John B. Conn, a mechanic at Marlborough, said he had been mistaken when he told the sheriff that a man named Conn had told him that Graham stopped him and asked for money. Conn said that he now thought he had misunderstood Conn and that it was a stranger who held Conn up. He came to this conclusion after a man named Hannigan told him that he (Conn) had misunderstood Conn's story. Conn said he now believed that the man who had told him he had, and that he now believed that it was not Graham, but a stranger who held Conn up in front of a store and asked for money. This was just prior to Graham's disappearance.

Coroner Butler's son testified to the finding of the body in the swamp as he was crossing the creek with two companions and of his notifying his father. He described the location and condition of the bodies in Marlborough, said that he was a neighbor of John Berryman. Berryman had left Marlborough and is now thought to be working in Poughkeepsie. He had been back home once since the finding of the body. It was a Saturday night two weeks later. He came in the night with a companion whose name was "Jack," and the companion appeared to be intoxicated. They both left next day. Berryman had not been noticed by Burke since the Monday prior to the finding of the Graham body until the time he came at night. It was a Saturday night. Burke and Berryman live in the same house but in separate apartments. Burke, who works every day, did not know who works at the Berryman home. James Ronk, carpenter and some-

BASKETBALL AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

K. H. S. Quintet Plays Its Second Game Tonight at Annandale—Interclass Teams Organizing—Debate Societies Active.
Tonight the high school basketball team journeys to Annandale, where the second game of the season will be played against St. Stephen's seconds. The team is in fine trim this year as shown by their victory over the Triangles. If the team keeps up its good start, a good season and possibly the league championship will be ours.

The Inter-Class basketball teams are organizing. The Junior team elected E. Morris to captain the team and Dick Riseley as manager. This week has been a strong one in the line of debating, both the Lincoln-Douglas and the Wesley-Haynes having debates.

Wednesday the Webster-Hayne held a trial debate. The question discussed was, "Resolved That France is Justified in Holding Germany Responsible for the Total Indemnities." The negative team which consisted of Jeff Pennington, leader; C. Smith and K. Barnovitz were awarded the decision of the judges.

Thursday the Lincoln-Douglas also held a debate, the last one scheduled. The question discussed was, "Resolved That U. S. Should Adopt Government Ownership of Mines." The negative team was the winner. The negative team consisted of Boeve, leader; Rhinehart, Brown. The affirmative team consisted of Port, leader; Nullik and Wiesman. This debate was the best that the Lincoln-Douglas has held this year. The members have shown a good spirit and have said that they are willing to debate again.

Tonight the pupils of the high school will see their staid teachers in very uncommon and unconventional poses. The performance will begin at 8:15 at the high school auditorium.

BIG TIME ENJOYED BY CLUSTER GARAGE EMPLOYEES

Thursday night was a gala night for the employees and sub dealers of the Ulster Garage. The officers of the company handling the Cadillac and Nash cars thought it fitting that a supper in the form of a pig roast be tendered to the working staff of the garage, so they assembled at 5 o'clock at 269 Fair street and drove to Pine Hill where a delicious supper awaited them on their arrival. Although the weather was inclement it did not dampen the spirits of the party in the least. Some twenty-five attended. After a few talks and the supper the party adjourned to the music room where some of the very latest orchestra selections were rendered as well as several solos that were roundly applauded. The party left for home at an early hour always believing that too much pleasure is not good for business and knowing full well that the Christmas rush will keep them on the hop.

NEEDLEWORK GUILD MET UNDER ADVERSE CONDITIONS

The annual meeting of the Kingston branch of the Needlework Guild met on Thursday afternoon at the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church. Owing to the storm many of the directors were unable to be present nor did they send their contributions, which will amount to considerable more clothing and possibly more money. As it was, 216 articles were assembled for distribution and a substantial amount in money was received. As the election of officers does not occur until next year, a program was in order and Captain Newton, of the Salvation Army, delivered a most excellent address. This was followed by two delightful vocal solos by Mrs. Orlando Wood, accompanied by Miss Pierce.

SLIGHT FIRE IN ENGINE ROOM AT HUTTON CO. BRICKYARD

This noon some pails of tar set in a pail of water to heat in the engine room at the Hutton Company brickyard at Kingston Point, became overheated, exploded, ignited, and set fire to the siding of the room, causing a still alarm of fire to be telephoned into the fire department. While waiting for the firemen to arrive, employees began extinguishing the flames by throwing pails of water on the fire, and it was not found necessary to stretch hose or use chemicals. The damage to the building was not heavy.

MORGENW'CK SIGNS TWO NEW PLAYERS

Jerry Sullivan and Joe Dreyfus To Be With Kingston Metropolitan League Team—Yonkers Signs Three Players.
A number of changes in the roster of two of the Metropolitan Basketball League teams have been made today.

As Ray Kennedy, Barney Sedran and Honey Russell of Yonkers, have been suspended for breaking their contract with that club, by preferring to play basketball in midwestern cities, Manager Hatch Ryan has signed up in their places Eddie White, Stanley Harris and Garry Schmoeck. White was one of the stars of the league last season while playing with Visitation, but this year he announced his retirement because of business interference. Stanley Harris, who has been one of the stars of the Washington American Baseball League team for several years, makes his initial appearance in the Metropolitan wheel, after making a sensational record in the old Penn State League. Garry Schmoeck needs no introduction to fans in this section of the country. For the past decade Garry has scintillated brilliantly on hundreds of occasions, due to his great ability to toss in the two timers from all over the floor.

OLD KINGSTON ILLUSTRATED. A BOOK WORTH OWNING.

Decker & Fowler have just published for distribution to their customers a very handsome book entitled "Old Kingston Illustrated." It contains forty-six views of Kingston and Rondout, the same ones that have been appearing from week to week during the year in their advertisement in The Freeman under the heading "Do You Remember This?" The pictures of "Boots" Van Steenburgh and "Jerry" Winfield, two celebrated characters in years gone by, will bring back to the older generation many pleasant recollections, while the pictures of Rondout in 1873 (showing the large number of sailing vessels in the creek), the high piles of coal on the Island Dock, the stone yards at Wilbur and the toboggan slide (which ran from West Chester street to the hill in the rear of the high school), will be a revelation to the younger generation. The old court house where George Clinton was inaugurated the first governor of the state, the Lincoln Memorial in front of the old Eagle Hotel, and the 20th Regiment in camp in 1861, before they started for the Civil War, are all historical. It is a book worth while owning and will be highly prized and carefully preserved by those who are fortunate enough to possess one. It is understood that this firm intends to publish the old stone houses of Kingston next year. Many of them were destroyed years ago but those that are still standing are a great attraction to the many visitors who come here.

WINTER TRIP

"I'm going on a little winter trip to-day," said Billie Brownie to Peter Gnome.

Hugged Each Other.

He had just met Peter Gnome right on the outskirts of Brownie-land.

"What are you about to do, Peter?" Billie asked. "I don't mean to be rude, but I'm always interested in your adventures."

"I have a meeting today of the Every-Day-Is-Nice-Day club," said Peter. "Sorry you cannot come to the meeting. But, of course, you don't need to come! You think every day is nice, anyway."

"Sorry, too, I can't come," said Billie Brownie. "You see, I am taking so many trips these days—getting to know so many of the children of dear old Mother Nature."

"Today she suggested that I should take a winter trip and meet some of the winter birds, I believe. Couldn't you come, too?"

"I don't believe I possibly could," said Peter Gnome. "But when you come back from your trip, won't you come and give us a talk about winter birds?"

"Gladly, gladly," said Billie Brownie. And then they shook hands, hugged each other and went in different directions, each shouting after the other:

"Then I'll see you soon again!"

"Hello, Billie Brownie!" said a voice, and, looking about, Billie Brownie saw his friend, Judge Just Praise.

Judge Just Praise is a great believer in praising and encouraging.

He doesn't think there is enough praising of creatures. He says it makes people do much better in their work and in their studies and in their conduct—in everything—to be praised and encouraged once in a while.

"Hello, Judge!" said Billie Brownie. "I just saw a lovely collie dog being given a collar with a silver plate attached, upon which was the collie's name and some nice words about the dog," said the judge.

"That collie," Judge Just Praise continued, "saved a great many people in a bad fire. Oh, that dog was a splendid hero and it delighted my heart to see the reward being given."

"And then I also saw a big St. Bernard dog—they're so splendid!—save a cat from burning."

"The dog had awakened the different members of the family, after discovering smoke, which soon became flames."

"Then he had noticed that the cat was missing. Back into the burning house he had gone to come forth a little later carrying his cat friend in his mouth. The cat was frightened, but not hurt."

"And that dog is going to be rewarded for saving the lives of all the family—the cat, too! I heard some one say that he would be given a medal. If he had not awakened the family when he did the flames would have kept them from being able to escape out of the house."

"But now I must be on my way. Hope to see you soon, Billie."

Then Billie Brownie met groups of the winter birds.

"We're the American Crossbills," the American Crossbills chirped. "We sing and we twitter and we fly off and then fly back again without any special reason—just for fun."

"We don't believe in doing everything for a special reason. But we are fond of pine cones and our crossed bills or overlapping bills make it easy for us to pull the pine cones apart so we can reach the seeds."

"We're some what alike," said the White-Winged Crossbills. "Only you don't see so many of us. Some winters we don't appear at all."

"I wear a lovely rose-colored costume," said Mr. White-Winged Crossbill. "and the Mrs. White-Winged Crossbills wear yellow. It is something the same with the American Crossbills, though the Mr. American Crossbills wear more of a brownish-red costume, and my favorite color is rose."

Then Billie Brownie met the Chickadees, the Song Sparrows and the Cedar Waxwings, and they all told him they liked to be about in the winter, but they did love to have some delicacies left about for them.

Dad's Limited Knowledge.

The minister's little boy was having trouble with his go-cart, and a neighbor who came along stopped and said to him:

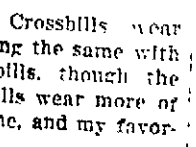

"Why don't you take it to your father? He'll know what's the matter."

"Oh, daddy won't know," remarked the little fellow in disgust. "Daddy don't know anything 'cept about God."

Chocolate Drop Cookies.—Cream one cup of butter, add one-half cup of sugar, one well-beaten egg, one cup of flour, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one-fourth cup of milk, one and one-half squares of melted chocolate, one-half cup of raisins and one-half teaspoonful of vanilla. Mix and drop from a teaspoon on a buttered sheet and bake in a moderate oven. Cover with white, boiled frosting.

Worcester Pound Cake.—Cream together one cup of butter and two cups of sugar until light and creamy, then add the yolks of four eggs beaten thick, and beat again. Mix and add three cups of pastry flour, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of cream of tartar, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one-half cup of milk, one teaspoonful of vanilla and one-fourth teaspoonful of nutmeg. Add the dry ingredients alternately with the milk and fold in at the last well-beaten whites. Bake in a flowered tube cake pan for forty-five minutes. Ice with a plain white boiled frosting if desired.

Date Bars.—Take one cupful of dates cut into small pieces, one cupful of walnut meats chopped, two well-beaten eggs, one teaspoonful salt, three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, six tablespoonfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder. Add the sugar to the beaten yolks, then the flour, and fold in the beaten whites at the last. Flavoring may be added if desired, but the dates and nuts will be plenty. Bake in a sheet and when cool cut off into bars.

Molasses Drop Cookies.—Take one-half cupful each of butter, sugar, molasses and sour milk. Add one egg, one teaspoonful of soda to two cups of flour, one-half cupful of raisins or nuts, cinnamon, nutmeg, and ginger to taste. Stir up at night or the day before baking. Drop by spoonfuls on a baking sheet.

TWO SANE PRESIDENTS.

It was a happy and unusual coincidence that the first annual messages of two presidents were published in the news column of The Freeman on Thursday, each president dealing with the question of the welfare of farming and farmers. Each without knowledge of what the other was saying, widely separated and in entirely different environment, the authors of the two messages said practically the same thing and suggested the same remedy—the good old-fashioned American remedy of self help instead of self pity and a demand for a subsidy. President Davis of the Ulster County Farm Bureau, an organization that is educational instead of political and that asks public funds only for its educational work, referred to "discouraging days" for the farmers and then said:

The only way out is for the farmer to pull himself out. Government can't do it, and the only way the farmer can pull himself out is by first welding an organization together that they can work through.

Referring to the same subject, the other president, Calvin Coolidge, president of the United States, said:

The distress is most acute among those wholly dependent upon one crop. Wheat acreage was greatly expanded and has not yet been sufficiently reduced. No complicated scheme of relief, no plan for government fixing of prices, no resort to the public treasury will be of any permanent value in establishing agriculture. Simple and direct methods but into operation by the farmer himself are the only real ones for restoration. He must have organization. His customer with whom he exchanges products, or the farm or those in industry is organized, labor is organized, business is organized, and there is no way for agriculture to meet this unless it, too, is organized. The acreage of wheat is too large. Unless we meet the world market at a profit, we must stop raising for export. Organization would help to reduce acreage. Systems of cooperative marketing created by the farmers themselves, supervised by competent management, without doubt would be of assistance, but they cannot wholly solve the problem. Some diversification is necessary. Those farmers who raise their living on their land are not greatly in distress.

President Coolidge has admirably restated one of the half century old basic doctrines of the Patrons of Husbandry, a farmers' organization that has endured the test of time and still flourishes, a power for constructive progress and a bulwark against rampant chasing radicalism and government interference in personal affairs or support of any favored class.

Another sensible and obviously true statement of President Davis in his message to Ulster county farmers is:

I sometimes feel that the world is over organized; well sounding names of organizations for a thousand different things. And all of these have to be supported. I wish sometimes we had the nerve to demand of each organization that it show where it has been of service through the year; as the canvassers for Farm Bureau memberships have to do and if it couldn't show the service that we had the nerve to transfer our love, affection, financial and moral support to some organization which could.

A weary and "driven" ridden people will agree to this unanimously, with the exception of the professional "drivers" and those who hope to locate themselves on Easy Street by means of "drives" that will give them other people's money to spend. President Coolidge did not touch directly on this topic in his message but there is no doubt but that he would lead the applause of the "driven" American people for President Davis, should he ever read this extract from the message of the latter.

The Freeman congratulates itself on having had the opportunity to print in the same day two such timely and sound documents as the first annual messages of Presidents Davis and Coolidge. May both continue along the path they have started on. We need their counsel and advice.

JUST AS HENRY FORD.

If Henry Ford can make only a poor showing, as against McAdoo, in South Dakota, a State full of discontented wheat growers all of whom are the proud possessors of "Fords," where can he be expected to lead all comers as a Presidential candidate? As if concluding that he must go outside of the two parties,

Robert H. Pointer of Detroit, a lifelong friend of the "wizard," has since announced the "Mr. Ford" is nominated on an Independent ticket, he will run. And yet on "Mr. Ford's Page" in a late issue of the Dearborn Independent it is stated that "blobs may multiply without end, but the Republican and Democratic parties still stand as the political machines through which the artist must pass before it becomes more than dust in the wind" which rather cryptic utterance can mean only that in order to get anywhere a Presidential candidate must employ as a vehicle one of the two major parties.

This is scarcely in harmony with the announcement that Mr. Ford will accept nothing but an independent nomination, or with the further announcement that no platform will be framed "because Mr. Ford will not sign his name on any dotted line either before or after his nomination." In other words, Mr. Ford will accept the Presidency if such greatness be thrust upon him, but it must be understood that he will do so without outlining or subscribing to any policies without making any promises, and without binding himself to anything; if the people want "Just Henry Ford," they can have him or it, but they must not ask for or expect more. It has long looked as if that is really all they would get, that Mr. Ford hardly knows what he wants and has not the time or the political capacity to find out, that he is "Just Henry Ford," successful automobile maker, and nothing more.

By James W. Lator, M.D.

That Body of Yours

(Registered in Accordance with the Copyright Act.)

THE HEART'S LITTLE TASK.

Did you ever think of the work done by that heart of yours? It pumps quart of blood throughout your system at such a rate that the entire trip is made about three times within one minute.

And every bit of force that sends the blood right to your toes and back again is by that stroke of the heart.

It gets no help anywhere. It counters the resistance of the vessels, carries the blood away and brings it back.

Although it is a pump, there is practically no suction of the blood upward through the veins.

The heart has to push the blood hard enough to send it the complete journey round.

And to do this it needs what? Just what it is made of entirely. That is much.

The heart is nothing but muscle—it has practically no other structures within it. It has the one kind of tissue needed for the job.

A tissue that has out the one function, that is the power to contract upon, or squeeze anything within it. If it be strong it can overcome even a leak in one of the valves.

And so the old athletic trainer has at last come to his own. He has always maintained that a good man's muscular heart would carry a man through. Accordingly when the athletes turned out for football, or boxing, or track, or slow pace hockey, basketball or track athletics for a number of days.

He thus gradually built up the muscle fibres of the heart by asking them to gradually increase their work.

There was no fast sprinting, no jumping right into the midst of a game, no attempting to do any athletic feat whatever, at the beginning.

And the wind?

Why any trainer will tell you that the "wind" came as they strengthened the heart. In fact many of the fellows thought that the "slow running" or "jogging" as it is called was entirely for the wind.

Now what is my point?

That if an athlete is to engage successfully and safely in any form of athletic the biggest thing necessary is a strong heart.

And just think of the simple way he gets it.

Just jogging around the field every night for a few weeks.

And what about you?

You can't jog around the campus but you can take off your shoes, and getting over a joist in the house, can jog from one to three hundred steps twice a day.

It will take three or four minutes perhaps, but you can be just as sure that you are thus building up a strong muscular heart, as you are sure you are doing the exercise.

S. COHEN'S SONS, KINGSTON.

WRITTEN BY ELEANOR GUNN.

A Daily Fairchild-Fashion Feature to be found hereafter in The Freeman.

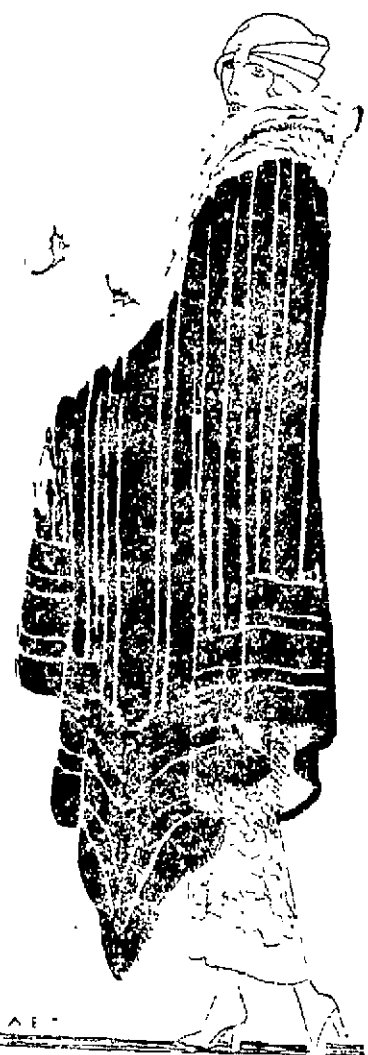

(What Fun or Bradstreet is to the banker and credit man, what the nautical almanac is to the navigator, Fairchild is to the manufacturer, wholesaler and retailer of women's apparel. Eleanor Gunn is a Fairchild special writer. What she says is said with authority.)

Fashions are usually concerned with what is to come. It is of course important to find sign posts along the road for there is nothing haphazard about being able to gratify one's latest whim in the shops. The average woman realizes the importance of looking ahead, but she wants also to be posted as to what is actually being worn. The present holds interest for her. Current styles are often far ahead if she cares to probe.

For such a woman there is a summary of what smart New York women wore at the recent Horse Show, and during the weeks between crowded with football games and all manner of opportunities for studying the accepted mode.

Color ran rampant at the gridiron contests, yet at the Horse Show dark colors, especially black, dominated, although ermine was noted there to a considerable extent. There was also disclosed a strong partiality for black, and in hats a significant preponderance of black satins followed by velvet with fur, then felts and broadsides. The repeated use of satin for hats and of black velvet and ermine for dresses was important—also the use of red.

Beige-ermine was used for a bloused coat worn with a matching broadcloth skirt and felt hat trimmed with multi-colored pastel feathers. Beige-ermine with citka fox made an attractive three-quarter length coat. There were many fur bordered coats in wrap-around and other effects, and some fur bordered suits.

The novelty in furs was, however, the fur suit or the composite suit, the skirt of which was made of fur and the coat of cloth, fur trimmed of course. There were many number of fur trimmed hats. Among the trimmings a white fur calla lily, a red fox head and many ermine tails may be mentioned. The combination of novelty furs was also a dominating note, red fox being used extensively for trimming.

The rabbit skin is used for many purposes besides the wrapping of my baby bunting, this season. Lapin, under which name the humble white rabbit masquerades in society, is much in evidence, especially in white and a white fur turban frequently tops a white fur coat which terminates at the neckline and is worn over a smart frock of velvet or some approved cloth.

One cannot get far these days without one's attention being flagged by red. There are red coats galore and almost as many red dresses, and for evening the wrap is as often red as another color, the newest wraps being beaded and frequently having a velvet background.

That long white gloves have asserted their right to recognition has been conceded and whether one deplores the restriction or not it is necessary to accustom oneself to thinking of the formal costume being incomplete without them.

FINDS WEATHER PROVERBS O. K.

Meteorological Expert Explains Accuracy of Sayings.

ALL BASED ON EXPERIENCE

Proverbs used by country folks in predicting the weather are accurate guides, according to W. J. Humphreys, meteorological physicist of the United States Weather Bureau at Washington.

Doctor Humphreys in a book
"Weather Proverbs" just published proves scientifically that many of the old sayings of the farmers and sailors are founded on fact and are excellent guides to coming weather conditions.
He demonstrates in his book the sound truth back of the old sayings. For instance take the proverb:

"An evening gray and a morning red
Will send the shepherds wet to bed."

Red Sky Indicates Rain.

A red morning sky, he points out,
indicates that the whole atmosphere up to a considerable elevation is humid and rain is, therefore, probable later in the day. A gray evening, he says, means much the same thing.

As to the proverb: "Rainbow at night, sailor's delight, rainbow in the morning, sailor's take warning," he says: "In the evening a shower which causes a rainbow is commonly moving further away from the point of observation thereby promising fair weather for that locality. In the morning the reverse is true."

Here are some proverbs which have to do with rain all of which are said by Doctor Humphreys to be based on sound observation and reasoning:

"Sunshine and shower, rain again tomorrow."

A shower means rain from a cloud of limited extent, but it also implies quite humid air and indicates that further showers are quite probable.
He says the following proverbs are based on facts which he points out:

"When the dew is on the grass Rain will never come to pass."

"When leaves show their undersides
Be very sure that rain betides."

"When the smoke goes west Good weather is past."

"When the smoke goes east
Good weather comes fast."

"When the wind is in the south
The rain is in its mouth."

Referring to the last proverb he says in effect:

Winds from the south are warmest and commonly most humid. They usually form part of a cyclonic storm and blow from its rainiest region.

"Furrows that kink and cords that throb"

Signs of rain and heavy winter weather in the air is responsible for the phenomena recorded, as also for the truth embodied in the proverb that—

"A coming storm your shooting corns perceives."

And aphes will throw your hollow
tooth with rage."

THANKS U. S. FOR QUAKE AID

Unknown Japanese Woman Sends Letter of Appreciation.

A nameless woman of Japan has thanked "My dear, the people of America" in a letter received by Secretary Hague at Washington for the relief work administered by Americans in Japan following the recent fire and earthquake disaster in Tokyo and Yokohama.

"How we all Japanese thank you for your great kindness in this time," the letter said. "You gave up all. You sent us much necessary things and you all are very kind to us. Our thanks are beyond measure. We all will never forget them hereafter. I am only a nameless woman, but I must write you,
this, even with such a broken word, as I could not keep secret my thanks.
Please excuse my impolite."

"Hoping you are happy and peaceful forever and thanking you for your great kindness—"

"None of the letters of gratitude, including those received from the emperor of Japan, the prime minister and the Japanese ambassador here, has been more appreciated by State department officials than that received from the 'nameless.'"

RECORD ORDER FOR STAMPS

Chicago Sends Requisition for $5,500-000 Worth.

The largest requisition for high denomination stamps ever received reached the Post Office department at Washington from Chicago.

Exclusive of ones and twos, the order totaled 60,000,000 stamps with a value of $5,500,000, and included 1,000-000 50-cent stamps, 100,000 $1 stamps,
4,000,000 of the 20-cent denomination,
8,000,000 10-cent, 8,000,000 of the 15-cent and 3,000,000 each of the 11-cent and 30-cent denomination. Other stamps of lower denomination were ordered in lots of 5,000,000 and 6,000-000 each.

Owl Darkens Two Towns.
A large barn owl darkened two towns near Camden, N. J., when it perched on a high-tension wire which carries electricity to Swedesboro and Millsboro. All the lights in both places went out as the current crossed through the owl's body. The dead bird is now on exhibition in the office of the Electric Company of New Jersey. Its wing spread is four feet.

CIVIL WAR AND FAMINE
RUIN "RUSSIAN RIVIERA"Crimea, Beloved Health Resort, Now Desolate—Vineyards and Fruit Gardens Gone.

The Crimea, the beloved health resort of the old days and known as the "Russian Riviera," once filled with beautiful palaces surrounded by flowers, vineyards and magnificent fruit gardens, lies now flowerless and ruined as a result of the civil war and last year's famine.

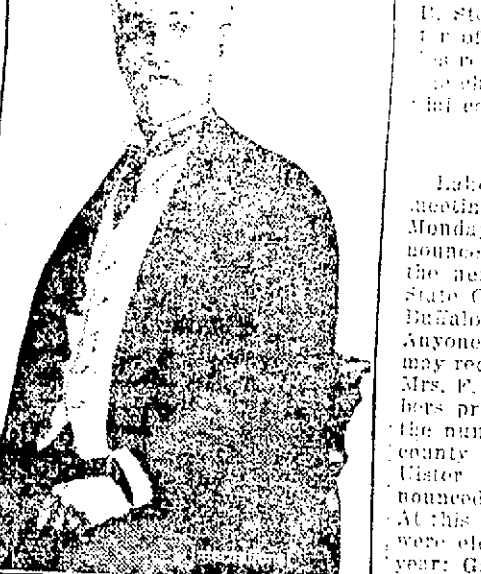

Many of the owners of these villas, vineyards and fruit gardens belonged to the upper classes and lived in central Russia, coming here for their relaxation. Large numbers fled the country years ago, while others, having thrown in their lot with General Wrangel, became the scapegoats of his acts after his defeat and paid the death penalty during the terror which followed the second occupation of the Crimea by the Bolsheviks.

The Crimea has not escaped the effects of nationalization, confiscation and requisitions, and while nominally the immense vineyards and magnificent gardens have been declared nationalized, as a matter of fact they are nobody's property. Vineyards and gardens stood unguarded for several years, with the result that everything went to the dogs.

The wine stocks dried, and a majority of the best fruit trees died. Thousands of acres of almond, apricot, peach and pear trees and vineyards are today absolutely worthless, and many a year will have to pass before they can be brought to life again.

The same is true of agriculture and industry. Despite the reconstruction work carried on by the Crimean "Independent" soviet government, Crimean agriculture and existing minor industries are in a deplorable condition. The number of cattle has diminished by 75 per cent, the total number of working horses being today only 30,000. The sowing area is only 40 per cent that of 1916. This year's harvest will be very small.

Industries in the Crimea are insignificant and play an unimportant part in the economic life. They consist largely of the curing of tobacco, tanning and preserving. They all languish. There is no market for the local salt, and Crimean wines go begging. The people are impoverished and seem content to live with insufficient food, no comforts or pleasures, and with little hope for the future.

LAST SURVIVOR OF FAMOUS
CIVIL WAR ORGANIZATION

Maj. J. C. Barclay, above, eighty-five, now living in retirement at Canfieldville, Ill., is the last survivor of the famous military organization known as the United States Zouave Cadets, commanded by Maj. E. E. Ellsworth. Organized in Chicago in 1856, the Zouaves won fame in drill competitions on a tour of the country. When the Civil war started the company was expanded into a regiment, composed largely of the New York city fire department. The commander's first orders were to move to Alexandria, Va. On the morning of May 24, 1861, Commander Ellsworth rushed into an Alexandria hotel to tear down a Confederate flag and was shot dead by the proprietor, who fell from a balcony at the same time. Major Barclay remembers well this incident. Ellsworth was the first line officer killed in the Civil war.

ROBIN UNABLE TO GROW TAIL

Bird Can Have Its Freedom When It Gets Feathers.

Mimi, a pet robin owned by Mrs. Margaret Reader of Boston cannot have freedom because her tail feathers will not grow. Mimi has been in Mrs. Reader's care since fledglinghood.

Sad to relate but, alas, true, Mimi is doomed to a life of pampered ease as a house pet because she hasn't got a tail—that is a tail that could be properly called one.

No less than three promising sets of tail feathers has Mimi developed since she came into Mrs. Reader's hands as a fledgling, but each time she aspired to full grown robinhood—no pun intended—her embryo tail would sicken and die. Mrs. Reader says that if her unique pet manages to grow a tail with which to propel herself about the yard, the bird may have its freedom.

CARDS LEAD TO SLAYER'S ARREST

Negro Voodoo Doctor Confesses to Murder of Nurse Who Sought Love Cure.

HIT HER WITH BRICK

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Miss Elsie Barthel, twenty-eight-year-old nurse, was killed by Alanzo Savage, negro voodoo doctor when she refused to give him $300 for curing her love ills, according to a confession city detectives said the negro made. The confession, according to Louis Left, captain of detectives, was made after Savage was taken to the scene of the crime's short-ly after midnight.

Under the glare of motor car headlights, Captain Left said, Savage re-acted in detail his movements when he hit the nurse beneath the portico of a deserted East end mansion.

Soon After She Yielded Cash.

The negro confessed, Captain Left said that he struck the nurse in the face when she seized the money out of his hand; told her with a brick, and then dropped a 70-pound block of marble on her head. As she fell, Miss Barthel cried, "I'll give it to you," Savage is said to have told the de-tectives, but the negro stepped to the outside of the portico and pushed the loose marble block from the wall, crushing the victim's head.

Details of the confession made pub-lic by Captain Left recited how Miss Barthel met Savage while they were employed by an East end physician.

Felled Her With a Brick.

the woman as nurse and the negro as a butler. The nurse learned of Sav-ge's ability as a "fortune teller" and approached him when she had dif-ficulties with her sweetheart. Savage gave her six cards, held together by a black pin, and told her the "charm" would work if she returned the cards to him and paid him $300.

Cards Lead to Slayer's Arrest.

They met under the portico late at night and Miss Barthel handed Sav-ge the cards and an envelope con-taining the money. When Savage an-nounced that "the cure" had worked the nurse grabbed the money from his hand. Then followed the killing. Sav-ge picked up the money, but in his haste he dropped the blood marked cards. It was these cards that led the police to arrest the butler. In his home they said they found a deck of cards with six missing. The cards found near the body completed the deck Captain Left declared.

Walter Haul, a taxicab driver, and friend of Miss Barthel, was taken to central police station for questioning. While talking with detectives Haul said Savage, who was being held, had then identified Savage as the negro he had taken in his cab to the East end district on the night of the murder.

Woman Held With Man As Automobile Thief

St. Louis—Love or luxury, only a few and a married man, Miss L. L. Lattrell, twenty-eight, go on a motor car stealing spree with the man Samuel C. King of Chester, Mo., she told police.

The couple, under arrest here, have confessed to stealing a half dozen au-tomobiles in Brookfield and Cambridge Mo., and Decatur, Springfield and Champaign, Ill. They are held for fed-eral authorities on charges of inter-state transportation of stolen cars.

Miss Lattrell tired of home life in Brookfield, so she went to Decatur, got a job in a restaurant, met King and started her campaign for what she regarded as "the better things in life."

Holds Forced Marriage Valid.

Fort Worth, Tex.—The mob which forced Mark Lissay and Irene Cartwright to marry at night on a public highway did no wrong, according to a jury's verdict. The jury held that Lissay, under promise of marriage, betrayed the girl and then tried to de-serve her. The marriage now must stand, it was ordered.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while it goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to serious complications.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist, Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

Cod Liver Oil Now In Tasteless Tablets
GREATEST FLESH BUILDER

No more will weak, thin, unfortunate children cry in protest when the nasty, fishy tasting, horrible smelling cod liver oil is brought out. Medical science progresses rapidly and now you can get at your druggists real, genuine cod liver oil in sugar-coated tablets that young and old can take with ease and pleasure.

Even the run-down and skinny grown ups who ought to take cod liver oil, because it really is the greatest vitamin food and builder of healthy flesh in the world, will feel extremely joyful when they read this welcome news.

Of course, doctors have been prescribing cod liver oil in tablets under another name for several years, but it is only of late that one can walk into a drug store and get a box of these flesh-producing tablets just as easy as a bottle of magnesia.

Thin, run-down, anemic, men, women and children who need to grow strong and take on flesh are advised to get a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets.

One woman gained 15 pounds in five weeks, according to her own doctor—another 10 pounds in three weeks. A very sickly child, age 9, 12 pounds in seven months and now plays with other children and has a good appetite.

Just ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets—your druggist will tell you that they are wonderful flesh and health builders. Only 60 cents a box.—Advertisement.

A PARADISE FOR LATE SHOPPERS

What shall I give? That is the eternal question in the month of December, and as Christmas time draws nearer the question becomes more of a problem to the extent that the joyous holiday time finds many a woman with her gifts unsatisfactory and herself a nervous wreck.

The Women's Exchange has always prided itself on being a shop that was "different." A visit to this little corner at 1 Main street will solve many a Christmas problem and fill the soul of the harassed shopper with joy.

Here may be found women's scarves, women on hand looms, extremely smart for wear with tailored suits. Also hand made sweaters such as are never seen in the department stores, woven silk and linen runners for the library tables or buffets.

We have beautiful bed and table linen and particularly pride ourselves on our collection of flax lace pieces. Our luncheon sets are so out of the ordinary that New Yorkers who chanced to see them during the motoring season are writing up for them now.

We carry a line of Christmas cards and gift cards, with calendars so unusual that our customers exclaim over them.

The hooked rugs, now so fashionable for Colonial rooms, may be found here in great variety and very reasonably priced. Our indestructible dolls have personality which will win the love of the child who gets one, and for the very little tots we have dolls that may be used for pillows.

These articles are only a few chosen at random from a stock that is varied and delightful. In addition to the fancy articles, our bake-stuff counter will take orders for Christmas fruit cake, mince pie and plum pudding made at home by women who know how.

The Freeman kindly allows us this space each Christmas to advertise our goods because of the fact that all our stock is the output of women who work at home, and the Exchange is a philanthropic organization which gives the women of Kingston a market for their handiwork. All profits go to the consignee or so that gifts bought here not only please the buyer but help some working woman to a Merry Christmas.

MARTHA S. CHANDLER,
President of Women's Exchange.

BAR MAY WELCOME MR. SCHWARTZ

New York Lawyer May Be Honored Guest at Lawyers' Banquet—Nothing Sinister in Their Friendship.

Hopes of revival of the custom of the Ulster County Bar Association of holding an annual banquet have been revived by the appointment of the following committees by former Senator Charles W. Walton, president of the association:
 Banquet committee—Augustus Shufeldt, Floyd W. Powell, Andrew J. Cook.

Speakers committee—John W. Eckert, Palmer Canfield, Jr., Judge Joseph M. Fowler.

Having read of accounts of banquets in other cities, members of the Ulster county bar have become interested in the important discovery made by one of the lawyers in delving through some papers filed in the Ulster county surrogate's office. The discovery in question is to the effect that the executor of the estate of Minnie Barte, who died in 1916, was directed by the decree to turn over private stock of liquors which she possessed to Nathan Schwartz of New York city, the attorney for the executors, because said liquors could not be sold.

There are many members of the bar who remember Mr. Schwartz as a genial soul and they are willing to tell him so while he is alive instead of waiting to tell others about him after he is dead. If Mr. Schwartz feels so inclined, he will be a welcome guest at the annual banquet.

The members of the bar wish their committees to understand there is nothing sinister in their attitude toward Mr. Schwartz, but it is merely indicative of the spirit of good fellowship which prevails among them. If he can be found—Welcome Mr. Schwartz!

Bunyan Holds Record

"Pilgrim's Progress," next to the Bible, has been translated into more languages than any other book. The number (according to information received from the reference librarian of the New York Public Library) now exceeds 107 languages and dialects. Mr. Frank H. Mann, general secretary of the American Bible society, says this is a remarkable record for any book, and only goes to emphasize the more remarkable record of the Bible in this respect. The Bible has been translated in part into 770 languages and dialects, more than seven times as many as John Bunyan's immortal work, which first appeared in 1678.

Care of Ferns

To keep ferns in a healthy and growing condition, to prevent and to kill insects and diseases, a proper condition of atmosphere should be carefully maintained at all times. Extremes in moisture, heat, or dryness should never be allowed. In potting ferns after they pass the 4-inch pots, a potting stick should always be used, as the potter cannot very well firm them with his fingers, and it secures evenness in potting. Ferns should be potted tight, especially old plants. They should be shifted into larger pots whenever necessary. Once a day is often enough to water a fern.

World's Laziest People

The laziest people in the world are said to be the Svanians, a race of mountain folks living in the almost inaccessible mountain ranges lying between the Black and Caspian seas. Their living conditions are approximately what they were 2,000 years ago, save that they have invented new reasons for their laziness, having four holidays each week with a movable list of special holidays that can be declared any time they want another day off, while they live in squalor and filth, in huts and caves with none of the conveniences easily within reach.

Geese Weed Cotton Fields

The labor shortage problem confronting cotton growers in some of the southern states has been partly solved by geese. Because of the northern migration of workers, farmers found it increasingly difficult to obtain help to weed their fields. Experiments were made with geese, and it was found that they freed the ground of all undesirable vegetation, and did not harm the cotton plants. Many planters are now, as a result, using a goose to an acre to perform a task formerly done by human beings.

A Practical Miracle

A Sunday school teacher was trying to tell her children of the wonderful story of Jesus feeding the five thousand with the five loaves and two fishes, and said that no one else would have known what to have done with so many to feed and so little to feed them with. One little girl spoke up and said: "My mamma would have known what to have done. She would have made some biscuits."—Boston Globe.

Pitch-Blende

Up to the time of M. and Mme. Curie's discovery, pitch-blende, the jet black mineral in which radium is found, was regarded as being almost valueless. Mining companies actually paid large sums to have the residue of its pitch-blende supplies from which other minerals had been extracted, carted away to the destructor. In this manner many millions of dollars in radium was lost forever.

Schooner on Iceberg

A steamer was rounding Cape Horn recently when the captain saw a gigantic iceberg floating in the water, and on it was a large three-masted schooner with its boats still in position, but apparently no one was on board. It was impossible to get near enough to it to see its name, and what had happened to its crew remains a mystery.

There are so many ways to serve Kellogg's Bran—the one great aid to humanity!

You will enjoy eating Kellogg's Bran because its nut-like flavor appeals to the taste. And, think what each mouthful is doing to drive constipation out of your system and to re-establish health! That's because it is ALL BRAN. Kellogg's Bran is scientifically made to relieve suffering humanity—IT WILL DO THAT AS NO OTHER FOOD CAN!

Physicians recommend the regular use of Kellogg's Bran for mild or chronic cases and as a preventive. Bran, eaten each day and in proper quantity, sweeps, cleanses and purifies the alimentary tract.

Get away from pills and cathartics—Kellogg's Bran will give you permanent relief from constipation.

Do not confuse Kellogg's Bran with common bran. Kellogg's is cooked, crumbled and ready to serve. It can be used in the most delightful baking products without in any way reducing its regulatory value. Try raisin bread or muffins or griddle cakes made with Kellogg's Bran. Recipes are printed on each package.

Kellogg's Bran is nationally eaten for health's sake as a cereal—in winter time with hot milk. Others prefer it sprinkled over hot or cold cereals. Another way is to mix it with hot cereals just before serving. It can also be cooked with cereal. In each case, add two tablespoonsful of Kellogg's Bran for each person; in chronic cases as much with each meal.

Kellogg's Bran is sold by all grocers and is supplied in individual packages at first-class hotels and clubs. Ask for it at your restaurant!

DR. WASHBURN ON PSYCHOLOGY

Vassar Lecturer Talks Before Monday and Atharhacton Clubs—Hypnotism, Mesmerism and Other Suggestive Methods.

The lecture on Social Psychology given by Dr. Washburn of Vassar before the Monday and Atharhacton Clubs on Wednesday afternoon at Wiltwyck Inn, had to do with the subject of abnormal suggestibility or hypnotism, and proved to be unusually full of interest. Dr. Washburn said that abnormal suggestibility makes a person accept direct suggestion without any show of the fighting instinct or any objection. She then outlined the theory of Mesmer, as a physical influence somewhat allied with or powerful to gain influence for human beings from astrology. While the French Academy settled Mesmer and mesmerism as a charlatan and the operations of a charlatan, the influence lasted for about fifty years, being quite rampant in America in the 1840s. The second period of abnormal suggestibility came with the findings of Dr. Braid, an English physician who claimed that abnormal, or for that matter normal, suggestibility was psychological entity. As developed into hypnotism it was simply a heightened degree of influence, people generally.

In 1890 Prof. James went to France where hypnotism had been revived and was being considered by two schools of physicians and psychologists. Bernheim at a hospital in Nancy, near Paris for the insane, considered hypnotism as only exaggerated suggestion. Charcot at a hospital in Paris for the insane, believed that all had not been said when it was stated that hypnotism was simply the result of suggestion, but that there was something abnormal about the phenomena. Bernheim replied that neither little children nor feeble-minded persons could be hypnotized, only adults and, fairly normal people, but there could be nothing abnormal about it. Prof. James found that Bernheim was having rather the better of the argument, but today, Dr. Washburn stated the pendulum seemed to be swinging the other way. She said there was an important difference between hypnotizing a normal person whose fighting instincts were active, and hypnotizing a hysterical person.

Dr. Washburn explained that the hypnotic subject was placed in quiet surroundings, in a room that was darkened and where there was either silence or a monotonous sound as of dripping water, etc., placed in a relaxed position and told to think of nothing as nearly as possible. Then the patient was, after a few suggestions, told to sleep, and the greater the prestige of the operator, the more satisfactory the results. Of course the willingness of the subject to accept suggestion would help considerably. No person can be hypnotized by another against their will, but the will must be absolutely against it, not holding to any mental reservations that the operator might after all be able to exert his influence in spite of one's will. The suggestion of negation of movement is the most readily accepted. Positive and negative suggestions of hallucinations are more difficult to put across than those of movement. Dr. Washburn showed that hypnotic subjects need not be abnormal at all, and their susceptibility to suggestion does not prove to be a practical handicap otherwise. Then taking up the subject of dissociation, where but one part of the brain works normally, Dr. Washburn showed a dissociated person to be the more easily hypnotized. There are two types of dissociation; successive and simultaneous, the latter being instanced by the persons who reading a book will automatically write what is either suggested or asked by way of suggestion at the same time.

Every normal person at times experiences a slight form of dissociation, as absent-mindedness, etc. Intense concentration of mind or strong emotion may be responsible for a certain amount of dissociation in a normal person.

There was a brief but very interesting discussion after the lecture.

DRAWING MOUNT

By JANE GORDON

GERRY rode the proud black horse slowly between the crimson trees of fall. She sat in her saddle gracefully—Gerry was a small, graceful person altogether—but her blue eyes, beneath their sweeping dark lashes, were wistful and shadowed with perplexing thought.

It was so very strange about Dick. Repeatedly he assured her of his faithful and adoring love—Dick's actions, too, bore out his protestation—in all but one particular—the paining, tormenting particular that was saddening Gerry's heretofore unclouded days.

Dick lately had taken a decided fancy for the companionship of a rattle-headed, rather pretty young woman who had come to be the guest of Mrs. Spaulding. Mrs. Spaulding, a mutual friend of Geraldine and her fiancé, had presented them both to the monopolizing Miss Sidney Salls. Ever since, it seemed to the astonished Gerry, she had met here and there, by chance, her fiancé with Miss Salls near by. Now it would be in the street where Mrs. Spaulding lived; again in a park path, or even in the lobby of the church they attended—after service Gerry had at first treated the affair as a joke, with Dick; then, at the more distressing joking of her friends, she had reasoned with him on the subject. Dick first appeared amused, then indignant, then abjectly apologetic.

"I can't help it, Pal," he would say—his pet name for Geraldine—"the girl just seems to spring up where I pass." An irritatingly inadequate explanation. That Miss Sidney, the irresponsible, had an evident admiration for the good-looking, good-natured Dick, was beyond dispute. Even Dick, in his own embarrassed modesty, was obliged to admit the fact, when challenged. He did not admit that Miss Sidney was quite frank regarding her attachment for this, another girl's acknowledged lover.

The morning was fresh and sweet, recalling other charmed mornings when she and Dick rode through a love-enchanted world together. How happily they had started upon these early morning canterers—every turn of the way brought home poignantly sweet memory. Almost Gerry seemed to smell the accustomed fragrance of his cigar—fragrant to her because it seemed a part of Dick's presence. Tears coursed unheeded down the girl's pale cheeks—Dick, who could have been so faithful. Yesterday she had encountered him in this woodland path with Sidney—his confused explanation that he had met her there unexpectedly as he hurried by the short cut to Gerry's home. Always, always Sidney near, always his excusing.

Other cantering steps came swiftly behind Gerry's heart seemed for the moment to cease beating. Surely this, the familiar sound of Brown Betty's hoofs in chase. Dick then, too, had arisen early to ride through the wood, before business took him to town. Gerry's heart quickened to painful apprehension—would Sidney be beside him? Dick was racing after her—racing, no doubt, with some futile, foolish excuse regarding that last affair with Miss Sidney.

Gerry's indignation came on afresh with his nearness. She would give him a chase for his pains. Roses rushed to her pale cheeks, crimson now like the roadside foliage. Freely she gave Major the rein, excitedly urging—the other horse came on, panting behind. Then there was the tangled brush that oftentimes caught a horse's foot. Gerry remembered it, Dick might not; she slowed down at the turn. Major had cleared the trap-like brush daintily. Brown Betty had ceased in her mad rush; there was no sound of cantering feet behind. Breathlessly Gerry waited. She did not wish to turn back to face Dick in her anxiety—if he should be safe and unharmed, should she flaunt her tender love for him? The hoofbeats came on again; she drew a breath of vast relief—then the roses left Gerry's cheeks, to a deepened pallor—Brown Betty was dragging her mount—riderless. The horse stopped obediently alongside Gerry dismounted, fastened the horses together, went slowly, gropingly around the turn. No sound, no welcoming voice to direct her. Silence. Then Major called wonderingly. Brown Betty echoing the complaint. Gerry stood still in the woodland path, there, near the tangled brush, lay a man's huddled figure. She knew well the gray tweed coat—knew the dark head cradled on outstretched arm. He was very still—she bent over him, and raised the bowed head in her overprotecting arms. His dark eyes looked up at her, widened. "Darling! Darling!" whispered Gerry, "tell me that you are not suffering." The big body lay motionless in her embrace. Then Dick turned to kiss the small ministering hands. "Suffering," remarked a very reassuring voice, "I should say not! For the first time in months I am absolutely happy. When I saw that you were still determined to avoid me, Pal, I just sort of got discouraged and slipped down here to think things over. Guess Brown Betty must have taken her own way." Early morning is very sweet in a woodland way. Love underwood is very sweet, too. The lovers lingered. "But," said Gerry, "I shall never see a dragging mount again without a chill of recollection of what might have been."

SLAYER OF OFFICER GOES HOME TO COMMIT SUICIDE

Search for Muncie Murderer Ends When Body Is Discovered
on Porch of Wife's House.

Muncie, Ind.—The search for Claude Michaels, forty-six years old, who shot and killed Patrolman Anthony Wells here, came to a dramatic end when Michaels committed suicide on the front porch of his wife's home, near where he murdered the policeman.

Members of Michaels' family were awakened about 2:30 o'clock in the morning by a shaking of the front door, and a moment later a shot was heard. Persons in the house were too frightened to leave, but looking from the windows they could see nothing unusual. About 4:30 o'clock a newsboy passing the house saw Michaels' body lying on the porch and notified the police. Using the revolver with which Michaels committed suicide on the front porch of his wife's home, near where he murdered the policeman, he fired a bullet through his heart.

It is thought that Michaels returned to the house with the intention of killing his wife, as he had threatened to do this before his encounter with the officer. The police learned that several weeks ago Michaels told a friend that if he ever wanted to hide from authorities, he would secrete himself in the abandoned ovens of a steel company, at the south side of the city, and it is thought that this had been the hiding place of the slayer.

The inquest, which disclosed that Michaels had had no food for several days, discredited the belief that he had been harbored at the home of a friend. He was unshaven and his clothing was torn and covered with burrs.

Wounded Convict Fails in Attempt to Escape

Baltimore.—In the Union station here, with a ticket to New York in his hand and the announcer calling his train, the body of Frederick James, twenty-one, failed to equal his courage and a daring break for freedom from the state penitentiary failed.

According to James' story, he had planned his escape weeks ago. To scale the 24-foot wall he had improvised a hook and rope. At night he reached the top of the wall. There a guard saw him, fired, and James fell outside with a broken leg. While prison authorities searched for him within the yard, James crawled away and halted a passing motorcar. He told the driver that he had been struck by a taxicab, but must get the train for New York.

At the station James managed to buy a ticket and reach a seat in the concourse, but when his train was called he could not rise. Seeing the youth was injured, a railroad officer had him taken to a hospital.

Penitentiary officials found him there.

Autoist Runs Over Man Fast Asleep on Road

Boston.—Ralph Campbell of West Lynn was driving his big automobile near his home. He was passing a clump of bushes, running the machine near the side of the road.

Came a couple of bumps. Ralph jammed on the brakes. Back in the roadway was a dusty, form brushing his clothes.

"Did I hit you?" inquired the autoist.

"You shure did, bo. If I don't break that habit of sleeping with my legs stuck out on the road, I'll get hurt some day."

Ralph will not even have to tell the judge how he ran over a man's legs without knowing it.

Two Sisters End Lives: Suicide Pact Indicated

Asbury Park.—The bodies of two sisters, Mrs. Gussie M. Durr, and Miss Tillie Bang, were found on a cot in their home in Ocean Grove, with the feet of a gas stove open. Nearly lay notes indicating a suicide pact.

The women, both in late forties, had often expressed the fear that one might die before the other.

On the dining room table were found two bundles of clothes, each bearing the initials of the sister for whom they apparently had been selected for burial.

Firemen Save Corpse From Burning House

Cincinnati.—When firemen, answering an alarm of fire, arrived at a home on Pendleton street here they found the body of Harry Frank, forty, shoe worker, who died recently, enveloped in flames which had been started when one of the candles ignited draperies at the head of the coffin. The shroud was already partly burned away and the coffin and building were burning. The firemen found the members of the family and friends in great confusion. When the flames had apparently been put out the firemen attempted to lift the body from the coffin, but as they did so the excelsior, with which the coffin was lined, burst into flames again. The men carried the body from the house and then returned and extinguished the fire.

The cases of Lena Tonsky and Margaret A. O'Brien, against J. C. ## HOME BUREAU MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

The membership drive of The Ulster County Home Bureau is still going strong but no reports have yet been received from a number of communities because they intended to make their report at the annual meeting at New Paltz Wednesday afternoon and the storm prevented the attendance of committee members.

Alligerville-Kyserike won the membership banner for 1924 by going over the top more than any other community.

The results of the drive in the communities which had reported up to Wednesday afternoon were as follows:

STATE POLICE WITHDRAW FROM BOOTLEGGER TRAIL

Order Follows Murder Of Trooper
And Acquittal Of Suspect.

A week from the day a Saratoga county jury acquitted George K.
Haupt of Albany of first degree murder in connection with the shooting of Trooper Roy A. Donovan on "the bootleg trail" between Saratoga and Ulster counties, the order
commanding the barracks in Troy city, ordered all troopers from duty in Saratoga county.

So far as known it is the first time
such action has been taken. Captain Fobey referred all inquiries to the headquarters of the organization in Albany, but no statement was available there. The order leaves unprotected the "bootleg trail" through Saratoga county, the scene of an increasing number of bootleggers' gun fights and highjackers' activities.

The acquittal of Haupt is said to have been, extremely disappointing to the troopers. Two troopers who were with Donovan the night he was killed identified Haupt as one of the bandits. Haupt said he was drunk and asleep in the automobile the bandits used and knew nothing of the killing.

Defoe Knew Alex. Selkirk.
A sea captain who has not only killed the seas, but has read books,
writing in the Mentor, has this theory
about the production of "Robinson Crusoe."

"Defoe most likely constructed Crusoe's man Friday from accounts of 'Poor Will,' a Mosquito Indian, who evidently was a very ingenious man, as he could make fire by striking the flint of his gun against the barrel, and with it heated iron and the like. It is related that Daniel Defoe used to meet Alexander Selkirk at the Red Lion inn, in Bristol, England; clad in goatskins, the sailor used to recount wondrous tales of his exploits and hardships. Defoe placed his hero on an island off the Orinoco, in Venezuela, because he knew that location better, but Juan Fernandez was the actual scene of Selkirk's experience."

The Golden Rose.
A rose formed of wrought gold and blest with much solemnity by the pope in person on the fourth Sunday of Lent is called the "golden rose."

The prayer of blessing contains a mystical allusion to Christ as "the flower of the field and the lily of the valley." The rose is anointed with balsam, fumigated with incense, sprinkled with musk, and is then left upon the altar until the conclusion of the mass. It is then usually presented to some Catholic prince or princess whom the pope desires especially to honor, with an appropriate form of words.

Diet Changes Bird's Color.
Varying the diet of birds has been demonstrated by a Berlin naturalist to result in changing the color of their feathers. Certain foods will cause red of green parrots to turn yellow. The experimenters tend to show that a bird's hue depends largely on the dyestuffs contained in food. Dyestuff pur-chicken feed affects the hue of eggs to a considerable degree. Caterpillars fed exclusively on walnut fol-lage become dark butterflies. Indians have long understood the art of changing the color of living birds
through the diet method.

Poor Stuff for Copy.
A whoop-it-up London newspaper publisher was complaining one afternoon that the day had brought forth
no news.

"Well," said a member of parliament who happened to be calling, "you know the old adage."
"No news is good news."
"Still," declared the publisher, "it isn't good enough to call for an extra."

Wonderful Sight to Him.
A young Englishman who had spent two years touring the world was asked on his return what he thought the most wonderful sight he had seen. He answered: "Well, d'ye know, I think the thing that struck me most was the way those Australian chaps could light a match in a gale of wind."

Waste of Time.
Don't waste time reasoning with an angry man.

THIEVES USE ETHER TO STUPEFY THEIR VICTIMS

Police of Alexandria Believe Robbers Use Atomizer to Spray Drug in Homes.

Alexandria, W. Va.—The use of ether sprayed into rooms by burglars, who enter later and rifle homes, is believed by the Alexandria police to solve the mystery surrounding recent robberies in the outlying districts.

James Crump, a railroad fireman of Cottage Park, where several houses have been entered recently, was awakened and saw a man standing outside his bedroom window spraying some drug on him from an atomizer. Crump sprang from bed, and the intruder disappeared.

In many cases persons have found on arising in the morning that their bedrooms had been entered and clothing and other articles of value taken. In several instances the victims have complained of headaches and a dull feeling and more than one has expressed the opinion that he had been drugged.

In a recent case entry was effected through a window, the sill of which was 8 feet from the ground. The house had been newly painted, and there was no mark on the fresh paint to indicate that a person had climbed in the window, although the screen had been removed. This led the police to believe that there were two burglars, one of whom assisted the other in reaching the window.

Confidence Man Makes Newlywed's His Victims

Detroit.—Here's a new one showing that the chap who never worked and never will has a fertile brain and is able to keep abreast of the times with new swindling methods far ahead of the clumsy hijacking way of the low-down practitioner.

He is evidently a man of refinement and a student of the society page of the Sunday newspaper, for his victims are newlyweds.

A short time ago the daughter of a well-to-do business man was married to the son of another in this city and the happy couple started on a trip
that was to land them in New York in about a week. On Sunday afternoon the bride's father received a distress message from his new son-in-law asking that $200 be wired to him at a New York hotel. The telegram said:
"Will explain by letter and return money Tuesday."

The money was sent Monday and a little later a letter was received from the bride indicating that they would not reach New York for several days. The business man at once got busy and stopped payment in time to frustrate the swindler. Later it was found that the trick had been successfully worked on two other Detroit couples, one for $250 in Cleveland and another for $200 in Cincinnati.

Lost Boy Is Found With His Arms Around Pet Dog

Chicago.—Vernon Roeske, ten years old, who ran away from his home, 3042 Lyndale avenue, when his father demanded him to get rid of a foundling colle dog, was found the next day by Policeman Claude Alexander sleeping in a doorway at California and Milwaukee avenues, his arms clasped tightly about the dog.

According to John Roeske, the father, Vernon found the dog two weeks ago and named it Tootsie.

"Sunday I told him to get rid of the dog," the father said. "Yesterday he left home with Tootsie and didn't come back."

Returned home by the police, Vernon promised never to run away again.
Tootsie is now a permanent fixture
in the Roeske family.

Man Takes Own Life
in Los Angeles Morgue

Los Angeles, Cal.—John H. Pleasants, forty, walked into the chapel of an undertaking establishment while a funeral service was being conducted,
stopped at the casket and asked:
"Is this a funeral?"

"Yes," some one replied.
Pleasants then drew a revolver and shot himself in the head.

He died an hour later.
Pleasants was from 1904 to 1919
second vice president and manager of the Laurel Mills of Laurel, Miss., one of the South's largest cotton industries. He leaves a wife and one son.

Jumping Bean Causes Rumpus in Man's Tummy

Santa Barbara, Cal.—A police sergeant got up in the dark to take a capsule. Some time later he noted a most unusual commotion in the region of his diaphragm. He told the doctor that it felt like a riot of capsules, or an internal tango. What the doctor found with his stomach pump is shown in the following conversation:

"Dear," said the sergeant to his wife, "was there anything else on the dresser besides my capsules?"
"Why, yes, dear; there was a comb and brush, and a little box with your Mexican jumping beans."

The sergeant is recovering.

WOMAN HURLS ACID ON DOCTOR

Grief-Stricken Mother Throws
Liquid Into Physician's Eyes.

BABY DIED YEAR AGO

Detroit.—As the result of having a pint of nitric acid thrown into his face by a grief-stricken mother who erroneously believed he was responsible for the death of her child, Dr. Frank D. German of Pontiac may lose the sight of both eyes.

He was rushed to Harper hospital where it was found that the sight of one eye was destroyed, but they express the hope they may be able to save the other.

Captured by Doctor's Son.
Mrs. Daisy Lee, wife of Charles Lee, a Chinese laundryman at 2011 Virginia Park avenue, who threw the acid and then attempted to hack the face of the doctor with a meat cleaver, was captured after a chase by Fremont German, the doctor's fifteen-year old son, and Reginald Shaw of Pontiac, who were attracted to the scene by Dr. German's cries.

In her cell in the Pontiac jail Mrs. Lee was little perturbed when told her victim in all probability will be blinded. Instead she expressed deepest concern over the fate of her husband.

Mrs. Lee, who is twenty-five years old, formerly resided in Pontiac, Dr.

Received the Acid in the Face

German attended her at the birth of her child which died October 14, 1922. She accused him of having something to do with its death. Dr. German said the baby had heart trouble.

Fled From Woman Too Late

She came to the office of the doctor and started talking about the baby. Suddenly she reached into her handbag and jerked forth a bottle. Dr. German, suspicious of her actions, attempted to flee but was too late. He received the acid in the face.

Screaming with pain he rushed to the laboratory for an antidote. Mrs. Lee followed with a cleaver, but was stopped by Fremont. The chase followed, resulting in her capture.

She was burned about the hands and legs by the acid which splattered when she threw it.

"I wanted to make him suffer," she said firmly. "He killed my baby. I know he did."

Man Loses Wife, Car, Self on Visit to Washington

Washington.—Neils Jensen Spangrows Point Mo. reported to police headquarters he had lost his wife and automobile.

Shortly afterward his automobile was found at Third street and Maryland avenue southwest but his wife was not in the car and could not be found.

Detective Oscar Mondello however, found a note on the floor of the car, which read "Jensen I will be at the Union station."

There they were reunited and raised voluntarily in a mixture of English and Swedish.

Jensen and his wife had driven here from Virginia on their way home. A tire blew out and Jensen tried to purchase an inner tube and got lost.

Police took him to many places before he found his car. Police say they passed the car once in their journey but he failed to recognize it until they passed it again.

The articles were tied up in bundles ready to be hauled away just as the family returned. ### Crawls Into Firebox; Fights Off Rescuers

Cumberland, Md.—Opening the door of the firebox of his locomotive, Emil Thermes, twenty-eight years old, crawled into the flames and was burned alive. The suicide was seen by the engineer and a brakeman. They tried to pull Thermes from the fire, but he was too strong for them. He got a death grip on the sides of the grate, pulled himself further into the flaming furnace and was consumed. What remained of the body was recovered by the use of a scraper and climber bar. Insanity from brooding over the recent death of his mother is believed to have prompted Thermes to end his life. Thermes was a fireman on the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad and ended his life while his engine was in the yards at Fayette City.

DOG SAVES MASTER'S LIFE FROM BEAR'S DEATH HUG

Hunter Has Narrow Escape From Death When Attacked by Female With Cubs.

Camden-on-Gauley, W. Va.—H. V. Jarrett, cross-tie contractor of Three Forks, had a thrilling fight with a bear and two cubs, in which his two dogs also figured, and he displays the carcass of a bear weighing 220 pounds, a rifle with marks of a bear's teeth on the stock, a badly lacerated chest and right arm and a hunting shirt torn to ribbons as evidence.

Jarrett, about seven miles from Three Forks, picked up the trail of a female bear and two cubs. The bear had entered a thicket clump of laurel and the hunter's two dogs, one a seasoned bird dog, the other an eighteen-month-old "green" dog, rushed into the attack.

After pushing his way through the thicket, Jarrett was confronted by the mother bear making for the young dog, which was in full flight. The bear was about twenty feet away when Jarrett first saw her and was coming down the hill erect with front paws high in the air. Jarrett had time to fire only one shot, a roar of rage showing that it had taken effect, but before he could throw another cartridge into the barrel of his rifle, the bear was at arm's length and reaching for him. Jarrett turned his rifle end for end and jammed the stock into the bear's mouth, then backed away to escape the claws, which were rapidly tearing his shirt to shreds.

After he had backed against a fallen tree, the upper side of which was about four feet from the ground, the hunter had about made up his mind that he was powerless against the onslaught of the bear's paws.

Suddenly the young bird dog rushed from behind its master, where it had sought protection, and started snapping at the bear's hind legs. The mother bear turned and made a vicious swipe at the dog, but the brief seconds were enough to give the hunter time to whirl his rifle around, throw in another cartridge from the magazine and fire. The bullet entered the bear's side, broke her back and she dropped in her tracks.

Meanwhile the older dog, which had chased one of the cubs up a tree, returned at the sound of the shots and, seeing the bear rear up the ground, sprang at her and almost lost his life. The wounded bear clawed at his throat, slashing it open and just missing the jugular vein.

Burglar Traps Installed in Big Office Buildings

Chicago.—The gentleman burglar who operates in skyscrapers will have it much harder as the result of a plan inaugurated by the National Association of Building Owners and Managers.

Photographs, descriptions of dress, peculiarities and, in the case of known burglars, measurements of these men who are known or suspected of belonging to the gang of skyscraper burglars will be sent to every elevator starter and every doorman of every large building in the United States.

Officials of the association are confident that an organized gang of highly talented crooks operate in skyscrapers. They give as the reason for this belief that skyscraper burglaries come in epidemic form, the latest being prevalent in San Francisco. The system used in the Golden Gate city is precisely the same used in other cities during the past two years.

The method used is for some well dressed and well educated member of the gang to work his way into the good graces of some high social set. He gains the confidence of numerous men of affairs and learns the probable location of money or securities in these men's offices. He then learns the time when the securities will probably be in the office, and the job is put through in accordance with this information.

Youngster Is Immune From Injury. Elgin, Ill.—Anton Mocco, six years old, of Elgin, never has been seriously injured although he has fallen from a roof, has been struck by a street car, and by an automobile during his short life.

Slight Difference.

A man seldom has as much faith in his vote when he is voting for something as he does when he is voting to punish somebody.

Doing the Right Thing. Every duty we omit obscures some truth we should have known. There is no schooling like the persistent doing of the right as that right reveals itself.

At Last the Solution. Eminent scientists who have been trying to find out what causes earthquakes have at last come to the conclusion that it is some kind of a disturbance of the earth's crust.

Castle of Chapultepec. Emperor Maximilian and his consort resided in the castle of Chapultepec during their brief reign in Mexico. The castle is said to be in the exact condition in which it was when they fled from it.

COOLIDGE ON TAX QUESTION

Recommends Decreased Tax on Earned Incomes and Revision of Surtaxes—Home Rule in Matters of Education—Other Topics Covered.

The message of President Coolidge, printed in The Freeman on Thursday, was, due to haste and a heavy day's work, incomplete. The following important paragraphs were omitted:

In discussing fiscal conditions the president said:

This great concentration of effort by the administration and Congress has brought the expenditures, exclusive of the self-supporting Post Office Department, down to three billion dollars. It is possible, in consequence, to make a large reduction in the taxes of the people, which is the sole object of all curtailment. This is treated at greater length in the Budget message, and a proposed plan has been presented in detail in a statement by the Secretary of the Treasury which has my unqualified approval. I especially commend a decrease on earned incomes, and further abolition of admission, mesage, and nuisance taxes. The amusement and educational value of moving pictures ought not to be taxed. Diminishing charges against moderate incomes from investment will afford immense relief, while a revision of the surtaxes will not only provide additional money for capital investment, thus stimulating industry and employing more labor, but will not greatly reduce the revenue from that source, and may in the future actually increase it.

Being opposed to war taxes in time of peace, I am not in favor of excess-profit taxes. A very great service could be rendered through immediate enactment of legislation relieving the people of some of the burden of taxation. To reduce war taxes is to give every home a better chance.

For seven years the people have borne with uncomplaining courage the tremendous burden of national and local taxation. These must both be reduced. The taxes of the Nation must be reduced now as much as prudence will permit, and expenditures must be reduced accordingly. High taxes reach everywhere and burden everybody. They bear most heavily upon the poor. They diminish industry and commerce. They make agriculture unprofitable. They increase the rates on transportation. They are a charge on every necessary of life. Of all which the Congress can render to the country, I have no hesitation in declaring this one to be paramount. To neglect it, to postpone it, to obstruct it by unsound proposals, is to become unworthy of public confidence and untrue to public trust. The country wants this measure to have the right of way over all others.

Department of Justice. Under the head of "Department of Justice," the president said in addition to the paragraph printed on Thursday:

It is desirable to expedite the hearing and disposal of cases. A commission of Federal judges and lawyers should be created to recommend legislation by which the procedure in the Federal trial courts may be simplified and regulated by rules of court, rather than by statute, such rules to be submitted to the Congress and to be in force until annulled or modified by the Congress. The Supreme Court needs legislation revising and simplifying the laws governing review by that court, and enlarging the classes of cases of too little public importance to be subject to review. Such reforms would expedite the transaction of the business of the courts. The administration of justice is likely to fail if it be long delayed.

The National Government has never given adequate attention to its prison problems. It ought to provide employment in such forms of production as can be used by the public in competition with private business, for all prisoners who can be placed at work, and for which they should receive a reasonable compensation, available for their dependents.

Two independent reformatories are needed; one for the segregation of women, and another for the segregation of young men serving their first sentence.

The administration of justice would be facilitated greatly by including in the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice a Division of Criminal Identification, where there would be collected this information which is now indispensable in the suppression of crime.

The Negro.

Under the heading above, the president said:

Already a considerable sum is appropriated to give the negroes vocational training in agriculture.

O'HARA YARD

PHONE 140.

About half a million dollars is recommended for medical courses at Howard University to help contribute to the education of 500 colored doctors needed each year. On account of the migration of large numbers into industrial centers, it has been proposed that a commission be created, composed of members from both races, to formulate a better policy for mutual understanding and confidence. Such an effort is to be commended. Everyone would rejoice in the accomplishment of the results which it seeks. But it is well to recognize that these difficulties are to a large extent local problems which must be worked out by the mutual forbearance and human kindness of each community. Such a method gives much more promise of a real remedy than outside interference.

Civil Service.

The maintenance and extension of the classified civil service is exceedingly important. There are nearly 550,000 persons in the executive civil service drawing about $700,000,000 of yearly compensation. Four-fifths of these are in the classified service. This method of selection of the employees of the United States is especially desirable for the Post Office Department. The Civil Service Commission has recommended that postmasters at first, second, and third class offices be improved. I also recommend that the field force for prohibition enforcement be brought within the classified civil service without covering in the present membership. The best method of selecting public servants is the merit system.

Public Buildings.

Many of the departments in Washington need better housing facilities. Some are so crowded that their work is impeded, others are so scattered that they lose their identity. While I do not favor at this time a general public building law, I believe it is now necessary, in accordance with plans already sanctioned for a unified and orderly system for the development of this city, to begin the carrying out of those plans by authorizing the erection of three or four buildings most urgently needed by an annual appropriation of $5,000,000.

Education and Welfare.

Under this head the president said, in addition to what was printed Thursday:

It is in accordance with this principle that we have enacted laws for the protection of the public health and have adopted prohibition in narcotic drugs and intoxicating liquors. For purposes of national uniformity we ought to provide, by constitutional amendment and appropriate legislation, for a limitation of child labor, and in all cases under the exclusive jurisdiction of the Federal Government a minimum wage law for women, which would undoubtedly find sufficient power of enforcement in the influence of public opinion.

Coal.

Having in mind that education is peculiarly a local problem, and that it should always be pursued with the largest freedom of choice by students and parents, nevertheless, the Federal Government might well give the benefit of its counsel and encouragement more freely in this direction. If anyone doubts the need of concerted action by the States of the Nation for this purpose, it is only necessary to consider the appalling figures of illiteracy representing a condition which does not vary much in all parts of the Union. I do not favor the making of appropriations from the National Treasury to be expended directly on local education, but I do consider it a fundamental requirement of national activity which, accompanied by allied subjects of welfare, are worthy of a separate department and a place in the Cabinet. The humanitarian side of government should not be repressed, but should be cultivated.

Under this head the president said in addition to what was printed on Thursday:

The source of the difficulty in the bituminous coal fields is the intermittent of operation which causes great waste of both capital and labor. That part of the report dealing with this problem has much significance, and is suggestive of necessary remedies. By amending the car rules, by encouraging greater unity of ownership, and possibly by permitting common selling agents for limited districts on condition that they accept adequate regulations and guarantee that competition between districts be unlimited, distribution, storage, and continuity ought to be improved.

The supply of coal must be constant. In case of its prospective interruption, the President should have authority to appoint a commission empowered to deal with whatever emergency situation might arise, to aid conciliation and voluntary arbitration, to adjust any existing or threatened controversy between the employer and the employee when collective bargaining fails, and by controlling distribution to prevent profiteering in this vital necessity.

This legislation is exceedingly urgent, and essential to the exercise of national authority for the protection of the people. Those who undertake the responsibility of management or employment in this industry do so with the full knowledge that the public interest is paramount, and that to fail through any motive of selfishness in its service is such a betrayal of duty as warrants uncompromising action by the Government.

Muscle Shoals.

The president said, in addition to what was printed on Thursday:

While the price is an important element, there is another consideration even more compelling. The agriculture of the Nation needs a greater supply and lower cost of fertilizer. This is now imported in large quantities. The best information I can secure indicates that present methods of power production would not be able profitably to meet the price at which these imports can be sold. To obtain a supply from this water power would require long and costly experimentation to perfect a process for cheap production. Otherwise our purpose would fail completely. It seems desirable, therefore, in order to protect and

Forests Moderate Climates.

The forest service says that cutting down trees has a decided effect on climate and soil fertility. It is an established fact that forests tend to prevent extremes of temperature, either hot or cold, and thus moderate climate. They also prevent the washing away of soil, retard and often prevent floods and thus make cultivation of much land possible, land which without trees would be arid waste.

Green Gutta Percha.

This substance is now obtained from the leaves of the caoutchouc tree and is said to be more durable than that procured by cutting into the stem of the tree. Unlike the ordinary product, it does not require an expensive process of purification, so that its cost is cheapened. In France and elsewhere green gutta percha has been employed in the construction of submarine cables.—Washington Star.

THE BUREAU PORT ADDITION

Following was omitted from report of Miss Fisher on the Home Bureau, printed in Freeman on Thursday:

Falls—The agent met several with the community of Falls attempting to reorganize some of the old committee being to serve and doing a deal to discourage other people taking up the work. At one meeting the chairman and committee appointed and it was hoped that things would be straightened out. However, since then the chairman has been thoroughly disgraced by last year's chairman, consequently High Falls is not longer one of our organized communities.

Saugerties—For the last two years Saugerties has been very inactive and even very hard for the community to accomplish very little. An attempt was made to hold a committee meeting at Saugerties last half year. Only one woman attended the meeting so no further attempts have been made to re-organize Saugerties, the agent and committee feeling that sufficient effort has been made last year and before work up interest in this particular community.

Clintondale—Was very inactive in 1922. The chairman having died in December, 1921, under disagreeable circumstances, it was impossible to get another person to take the chairmanship during the year. However, in December, 1922, an organization meeting was held to the surprise of the agent, a new committee was appointed with a very good leader as chairman, and the material on the list promised very good for success of Clintondale. During last half year, six meetings have been held in the community, mostly with outside speakers. No project work has been carried on here due to the problems of local leaders and of the community accepting these local leaders. It is hoped that Clintondale's program for next year will be better and that they may continue success of the past half year.

Monteale—Also was quite inactive in 1922. Being approximately two miles from the county seat is very difficult to reach in winter. So last summer the agent in the clothing project to two leaders and others in a period of months. The leaders taking entire course before giving any in the community. Through fully understanding the project, membership felt that the local leaders were the only persons getting benefit from the Home Bureau due to this fact they became rather provoked. In order to remedy this misunderstanding, a joint meeting for men and women was arranged for in the fall. The Farm and Home Bureau Managers being the speakers. There is no Farm Bureau organization in this community. The Farm Bureau Manager spoke to the men on Commercial Fertilizers. The Home Bureau Manager spoke on the Home Bureau work as conducted through the local leader method and fully straightened out in their minds the misunderstanding which has occurred during the summer. Soon after this the local leaders started their project work in the community. Now we are glad to state that due to their efficient leadership Monteale is now one of our most active communities with a membership of twenty-seven (all active members), meaning thirteen over their quota. They are carrying the responsibility for the success of their Home Bureau entirely.

Mt. Marion—Another community which was rather inactive during 1922, although having a membership of seventeen, only approximately five people availed themselves of the meetings held and other benefits available through the Home Bureau. So it was practically decided in the fall of 1922 that there was no use to continue Home Bureau work in this community. At the Farm and Home Bureau Institute, however, they expressed a desire to re-organize and continue the work. A new chairman and committee was appointed and although they were not very active during the past half year, they are still counted as an organized community.

Hurley—Also has been very inactive and we hardly expected them to re-organize this year. However, at the Farm and Home Institute held last winter they expressed a desire to appoint another committee and to take up the dress form project. A new chairman and committee was appointed, the chairman to take care of the project. However, very little has been accomplished along that line as yet.

A summary of the reorganized communities reported above can be given as follows: The community of High Falls which became disorganized last year has re-organized and joined with the community of Stone Ridge. The community of Clintondale has been trying very hard during 1922 to interest its people in the Home Bureau work. During the first half of the year this went very well indeed. At the present time the chairman does not feel that she can continue any longer and it therefore looks as though Clintondale will drop out entirely this year. Monteale we may count as one of our best communities this year. Milton also is getting along very well. Mt. Marion and Hurley are about the same as reported above.

Two hundred and fifty-four conferences were held by the agent during the past year dealing with organization.

Congress Grants Vacations.

Captain and Mrs. Newton, each sang solos during the service.

At the close of the service a prayer meeting was held when a number of people offered themselves anew to God for service.

Orpheum Theater.

There was no mistaking the character or calibre of the success of "Rich Men's Wives," the B. P. Schubert Special Production, presented in this city last night, at the Orpheum. "Rich Men's Wives" is aptly named, because it has to do with that circle of society to be found in almost every large community, a circle that lives but for a feverish round of pleasure and excitement, a circle wherein intrigue and deceit breed scandal and divorce, whose members defy folly as their supreme ruler. In conjunction with the picture there is an excellent bill of vaudeville consisting of six acts.

Society Notes

Masters-Wood.

Miss Mary Esther Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Wood, of Krippliebush and Philip E. Masters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grant D. Masters of Bermuda, were married at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Ezra Quick, 279 Washington avenue. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. Wilbur Tetley, pastor of the St. James M. E. Church. The bride was crepe and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. Mrs. Quick was matron of honor and wore a gown of brown crepe de chine and carried pink roses. The bride was prettily decorated with ribbons, the color scheme being pink and white, and maiden hair ferns. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served and a reception held at which a number of friends and immediate relatives were present. Mr. and Mrs. Masters left today for Bermuda where they will make their home.

The D. A. R. and Our Flag.

The regular monthly meeting of the D. A. R. was held at the Chapin House. The afternoon was devoted to the history and general subject of "Our Flag." Mrs. T. D. Lewis having charge of the afternoon's interesting program, which opened with a piano solo, "Patriotic Medley," played with spirit by Mrs. Augustus Van Buren. Miss Dorothy Ryer, a pupil of Miss Mauterstock gave a forceful rendition of "Old Glory" as a reading that was greatly appreciated. One of the special features of the afternoon was the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," by Miss Mildred Fitch, accompanied at the piano by her teacher, Mrs. William H. Rieser. Miss Fitch who has a powerful dramatic soprano voice of rich quality has been studying for some two years with Mrs. Rieser, and showed by her singing of our very difficult national anthem, great possibilities as a dramatic soprano, especially if she continues under the tutelage of Mrs. Rieser. Mrs. Lewis had a paper on "The History of our Flag," that was both entertaining and illuminating. The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. James W. Scott and Mrs. W. H. Niles.

AGED EMPLOYEE OF KINGSTON HOTEL COMMITS SUICIDE

James Peck, who had been employed in the kitchen of the Kingston Hotel, Crown street, for several months, was found dead in his bed this morning. When "Jimmy" as he was called failed to appear in the kitchen at his usual time the cook sent a chambermaid to his room to call him. He did not respond to the call and investigation showed he was dead. Coroner W. N. Conner was notified and after an investigation reported that Peck had committed suicide by turning on the gas.

Mr. Peck was nearly sixty years of age and before going to the Kingston Hotel had been employed by Superintendent Edmonston at the Kingston City Home. It was stated that for a number of years Peck had made his home with Abel Black near Whiteport and had friends there. Investigation is being made to ascertain if he has any relatives. People about the hotel say they had not heard him complain of being ill and that he was apparently in good health when he went to his room to retire Thursday night.

The body was turned over to undertaker Leo V. Grogan.

Velvet, Satin and Chiffon Are Good

Seasonable Fabrics Must Express Style, Elegance and Luxury.

A wealth of fabrics offers inspiration to the artist of Paris and America this season in the creation of fine garments, writes a fashion correspondent in the New York Times. Not in many years has there been such richness of beauty in color and in variety of pattern, and the designer's fancy can take long flights. Little imagination is needed, indeed, to combine the splendid brocades, the satins and the velvets of beautiful texture and sheen, the laces of gold or silver, with the furs, the embroideries and the jeweled accessories that compose the smart costume.

The whole scheme is an extravagant one this year, though the lines are straighter and trimming is less than in former seasons. The cost mounts in the lavish use of material and in following the modern idea of luxury in detail. Brocades suitable for the most elaborate gowns and wraps are quite commonly used as a lining, and the inside of a garment is likely to be as attractive as the outside. The softest silks and chiffons are lined with velvet or fur or metal brocades, and a wrap of plain material is built to disclose something most lovely on the reverse side. Except for the athletic woman, there seem to be no serviceable clothes. Everything is dainty, often perishable. Gowns meant for utility are sometimes so fantastic or so formally elaborate that it confuses one to decide just where in the wardrobe of a fashionable woman they belong. Nobody nowadays wears homespun or twill or serge or, for that matter, anything "sensible," except for morning, for shopping or for a cross-country hike.

To be strictly up to date one must wear velvet or satin or chiffon; anything so it expresses style and beauty and luxury—especially luxury. The saleswoman in a smart shop asks you "seven-fifty" for an afternoon gown of chiffon and satin, fur-trimmed, with as much nonchalance as a while ago she asked one-third of that sum.

Negliges is important. The negligee is now a compelling feature. For several seasons it has been growing in importance, its freedom and grace of line charmingly expressed in the new materials. Some of the glorified negligees are shown in the new metal brocades, and some beautiful models are done in metal tissue. A stunning model of blue and silver in a large orchid pattern is cut in two straight panels that hang like a caress from the neck to the instep. The back width is longer than the front, touching the floor. These are caught loosely at the sides with silver cords, the opening showing a softly plaited underdress of pale blue chiffon, of which the full "bishop" sleeves are formed. The sleeves are caught snug at the wrist with a cord and tassels of silver.

The most popular models among the new negligees are those made of one

material, and these, of course, because of their simplicity, are the most comfortable. Nothing could be more engaging than a negligee of soft lustrous charmeuse in the style of a one-piece evening gown, half-fitting princess, the material in a delicate shade of orchid, trimmed all about the bottom, around the wide flaring sleeves and across the square neck at the back with marabout in deep blue-violet. Marabout is much liked, it is so dainty and becoming.

In a striking new model the latest weave in all-over gold lace is effectively used. The foundation of the negligee is of ivory satin, cut in an easy princess-slip, instant length, all around. Over this is a loose and somewhat circular robe of gold lace that falls straight in front, opening at the sides, and forming at the back a train, several inches on the floor, like a large flowing cape.

New Tan Bark Supply.

The construction of the canal through lagoons near Acapulco, Mexico, has brought to light an almost inexhaustible supply of mangrove trees, the bark of which is used in the tanning industry.

Grow Cucumbers in Greenhouse

It is One of the Most Raising of Vegetable Raising Crops Produced

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture. Directions for the growing of house cucumbers are given in the 1920, "The Production of Cucumbers in Greenhouses," by H. Beattie, horticulturist, of the States Department of Agriculture, which has just been released.

Greenhouse-grown cucumbers, the bulletin, occupy a high place in the estimation of those who have to appreciate their superior value. It is extremely popular, to the fact that it is an appetizing and sprightly flavor which is most palatable. The development of vegetable-growing industry in this country was largely influenced by the demand for cucumbers, lettuce, tomatoes, and these have always been the most important vegetables produced in the various sections of the United States. According to available records, cucumbers are second in importance, with lettuce coming first place. These crops represent at least 90 per cent of the $150,000,000 annual value of the vegetable crops produced in this country.

Factors Influence Growth. Many factors have influenced the growth of the vegetable-growing industry in the sections where it is maintained considerable importance. Modern forcing houses makes it possible to produce a high-grade crop over a wide range of seasons and put it on the market within a few hours after it is harvested. Cucumbers grown in this manner can be sold to the proper stage of maturity on the vines and put into the hands of the consumer in a fresh state. Vegetables lose more in quality by being served perfectly fresh than the cucumber. The use of the forcing house makes it possible to mature crops at seasons when the outdoor crop is not available. Over, it is possible to grow cucumbers so that they can be marketed in competition with much of the winter-gardening sections of the country, which has been off the plant considerable period and which bears an exceedingly high transportation and handling cost before reaching the consumer.

Essentials for Success. Success depends on the kind of greenhouse used, the available cheap fuel and labor, ready access to suitable markets, and close attention to details, says Mr. Beattie. Cucumbers are a highly specialized crop, and under favorable conditions the industry is profitable. The bulletin discusses the essentials of the industry including the best types of greenhouses to use, soils and fertilizers, varieties to grow, management of the crop, harvesting and marketing and other crops to grow during short days of midwinter.

The yields depend upon the care and attention given the crop. Under the best conditions from 30 to 60 cucumbers may be expected from each plant. As many as 100 to 120 cucumbers often been gathered from a single plant. As a rule, heavier yields are secured from spring grown cucumbers than are had from a fall or winter crop. The price received is greatly and may range from as low as 50 cents to $2 or more per dozen. The cucumber is one of the most promising of the vegetable crops, but it can be successfully produced only by paying close attention to the details of this highly specialized industry. Copies of the bulletin may be secured by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., as long as supply lasts.

Satisfactory Formula for Damp-Proofing. A very satisfactory damp-proofing formula for plaster walls is made of white, or extra glider's whiting, dissolved in one gallon of boiling water; soak half a pound of white glue for four hours in half a gallon of cold water and dissolve in a bath; dissolve one-quarter pound of phosphate of soda in one-eighth of a gallon of boiling water; mix the first two mixtures together and then add the last. If a thicker stock is required use a half gallon of water instead of a gallon in which to dissolve the white.

Artificial Lights Will Increase Egg Production. Addition of extra windows, particularly near the floor will allow light to enter the houses in the evenings of winter and keep chickens from going to roost. This addition will increase the length of the day for the chickens have a good result on egg production. Many poultrymen have installed electrical apparatus in the houses so that lights can be turned on in the early morning to get the birds to scratching and feeding early. The lights can also be kept on in the afternoons with better production results.

The difference in the number of eggs produced will more than pay additional costs of increased lighting.

Kiwi's Laying Power. In proportion to its size, the Kiwi lays the largest egg of any bird in the world: a female Kiwi five inches in length produces egg five inches long and three inches broad.

QUEST INTO
GRAHAM'S DEATH

bartender at the McMillen hotel, as he claims a look to his death, and at that time Graham's roll of money included several twenty, ten, and one dollar bills. In all, he counted, at Graham's request, a total of $120 in bills. The man also had at that time a change. He came to the bar for the purpose of buying a drink and Graham paid for a twenty dollar bill in payment of his bill. Although he had smaller bills, he did not remember telling of the roll until after the body was found. From Ronk's testimony it appears that the original roll of money was in the pocket of the coat which was found in the room. The roll was found in the pocket of the coat which was found in the room. The roll was found in the pocket of the coat which was found in the room.

the spot where the body was found and also of the place where the clothes were found. The clothing was found near an old stump on the creek bank in a natural depression. Here also was found blood and from the nature of the blood spots it would appear that the man met his death at this point. The drip of blood from the wound could be distinguished and appeared as though the man had been in a sitting posture as he came to his death. The clothes were found near the blood spots where they had been removed from the body after death. Down the stream some fifty feet the body was found on a sand bar in shallow water, where a small creek comes into the main stream. The body when found was lying face up in shallow water with the hands folded across the chest. The hands which were out of the water were clenched and when opened there was no blood stains found on the palms such as would have been there had the bloody razor found in the coat pocket been held in the hands in case of a self-inflicted wound. The soles of the feet which were also above water were perfectly clean, showing that the man had not walked from the spot where the clothes were found to the place where the body was found. The handle of the razor, which was closed and in the outside coat pocket, was clean as though the blood had been wiped off with the bloody pocket handkerchief. The blade of the razor was smeared with blood. These facts were described by former Corporal Lounsbury of the State Troopers who with the coroner made an examination immediately after the finding of the body. The body was found about 300 feet from the road which runs from the dock to the village and in a secluded spot in a wild ravine.

John Sullivan, who resides at Clear Cliff and who knew Graham for 17 or 18 years, having met him first at Middlehope where they were both employed as farmers, said that a couple of weeks prior to Graham's death he had met him on the bank corner in the village and came from the boarding house where he takes his meals. Graham asked him to have a drink and they went to the McMillen Hotel and Graham ordered a drink for them. Sullivan said Ronk was in the bar-room and served the drinks and after drinking his he went to the sitting room and sat down. Graham was in the bar-room and at that time Sullivan saw him talk with Ronk the bartender but did not see him pay for the two drinks. Sullivan also saw Graham once during the summer and again on the morning he disappeared, Thursday, November 1, on the bank corner at 1:30 o'clock. Graham had said something about having trouble with his eyes according to Sullivan. Frank Foerster, who is also known as "Taft" on account of his resemblance to Ex-President Taft as he explained, resides at Cedar Cliff with Sullivan. He also knew Graham when they worked together at the Morrow farm. Foerster said he saw Graham on Thursday morning on the bank corner and that he refused to drink with Graham as he was on his way to work. He expressed his opinion of the stranger as "just suicide." He said Graham had complained of pain in his side. John Tish who resides at the McGowan boarding house said that early in October Graham stayed at the house two nights. He was sure it was not later than that or about the time of the murder. About 9 o'clock on the morning of the disappearance Tish saw Graham on Main street. Graham remarked that he was cold and went down toward the bank corner.

James Ronk, carpenter and bartender at times, but who has not been working for some time as he has been ill, said he knew Graham and only slightly and he saw him only once in the bar-room. He could not recall him purchasing a drink or taking the money to him. The time he was in the bar-room was on October 22, a week prior to the murder, and at that time Graham said he was going to take the 10 o'clock bus for Newburgh. Graham asked Ronk to count his money and Ronk found that the roll contained $120 in bills. It was early in the morning and there was but little chance in the bar room but he changed a twenty dollar bill which was tendered in payment for two drinks which Graham bought. Ronk said he could not remember Sullivan drinking and thought Graham had both drinks himself, however he was not sure what became of the drinks. That was the last Ronk saw Graham according to his best recollection. On Saturday that the body was found Ronk was employed at the Brower sand bank and he arose early and after getting his breakfast he took the 10 o'clock bus for Newburgh. They took the dock road and Ronk senior took along his gun. He was going hunting until it was time to go to work. When near the cooper shop which is under the hill and not far from the path which goes down into the sucker hole where the body was found, he heard a noise. He started at a former examination at Marlborough that the sound was voices. His recollection now was that it was the sound from the cooper shop and either he or his son remarked that "they must be working in the shop." This was about 5 o'clock in the morning and it was quite dark. On his former examination Ronk told the authorities that he had gone to Newburgh on the night of Thursday, October 1, to do some shopping, but yesterday said that it was Friday night he went and not Thursday night. When first examined he said he had been home both nights but later stated that this was not correct and that he had come alone to Newburgh. When asked to recall who was on the 7 o'clock bus that night he was unable to recall a single person but finally said that Grace McMullen, a friend of his went with him and returned with him. He could not remember any other person on the bus or the driver. After shopping at several of the stores he went to see his sister, Mrs. James Coy, who resides in Newburgh. He left in time to get the 11 o'clock bus back to Marlborough and arrived in Marlborough at 11:30 o'clock.

It was this night that he met a stranger in the village who asked him for a quarter. Ronk said he was alone at the time and did not give the man anything. He said the man was not Graham although his description of the clothes of the stranger tallied close with the clothing found near Graham's body. He admitted that Miss McMullen was with him on his trip to Newburgh and he went home with her. He gave a description of the stranger as a tall man wearing a blue coat, khaki pants and a cap. The man addressed him as "pop" and asked for a quarter. This was near the bank corner and the stranger disappeared and he did not know where he went. He was sure it was not Graham and the last he saw Graham was on Thursday a week prior to the time he saw the stranger. Ronk said he remembered telling Lounsbury of meeting the stranger but he did not tell anyone as far as he could remember of having seen Graham with a large roll of bills. Herman Ronk, a son of the previous witness, was working at the stone crusher on the day the body was found. He went to work with his father and heard the noise in the cooper shop. He said he had not been at the sucker hole for two years and later said it was perhaps a year. He was not sure if his father was in bed on Thursday and Friday nights prior to the finding of the body or not. He thought he was home but would not swear to it as he was not sure about being home himself. He was home on Friday night to sleep but was about the village earlier in the evening. Wesley Terwilliger, who drives a taxi, said that he had taken John Berran and a stranger up to Mackey's Hill at night when the body was found and had not seen Berran since. He had not been paid for his trip. The stranger he saw two weeks later but did not know who it was. Berran went to see some girl and had used the Terwilliger service before for that purpose. Corporal Lounsbury who made an investigation stated that he had investigated the spot where the body was found and that he had interviewed persons. The position of the body was described and the condition of the clothing. Both sleeves of the shirt were drawn through the vest which was buttoned up when found. The exterior of the clothes were blood stained showing that the man had been killed before the removal of the clothing. Persons about the village had been interviewed and the last trace of Graham was at a store in the village about 1 o'clock on Thursday. After that he evidently dropped from sight. Sergeant Cunningham of the state troopers testified as to what he had learned from his investigation. He described the condition of the body and the wound. He found no blood on the dead man's hands or dirt on the soles of his feet as though he had walked after removing his socks. A mysterious automobile was observed at the junction of the dock road and the main street on the night when Graham is thought to have been murdered. The number is known. Sergeant Cunningham placed before the coroner statements which several persons made at the time of the finding of the body which in some instances differ from the story told before the coroner. An adjournment was taken for two weeks until December 20.

Electricity will soon supplant hand ringing of the bells of Notre Dame cathedral in Paris and when this new method comes into operation the gray old towers and smoke-wreathed flying buttresses will be a solitude inhabited solely by bats, owls and other feathered species. Home in Cathedral Tower.
Electricity will soon supplant hand ringing of the bells of Notre Dame cathedral in Paris and when this new method comes into operation the gray old towers and smoke-wreathed flying buttresses will be a solitude inhabited solely by bats, owls and other feathered species. Mme. Herbert is the present and probably the last of the bell ringers of Notre Dame. Like her medieval prototype, she lives high and the massive towers that crown the historic cathedral church of Paris, the last of a long line of successors to Quessimodo, the hunchback bell ringer immortalized by Victor Hugo in his story of the old cathedral.

Sanitary Sewer in Johnston Avenue.
Sanitary Sewer in Johnston Avenue, commencing at a point 25 feet from the existing manhole, said manhole is 153 feet from the center of Main Street and Johnston Avenue. The same has been left with me for collection at my office in the City Hall, in said City, that for thirty days from the date of this notice the said assessment may be paid without additional fees or charges, and that for the twenty succeeding days two per centum additional will be collected. If any of the said special assessments shall remain unpaid at the time last mentioned, I shall give a written or printed notice to the person or persons against whom such assessment stands charged, requiring them to pay such unpaid assessments and one dollar for such notice as required by the City Charter. Located at the Treasurer's Office, City of Kingston, N. Y., December 7, 1923. EDWARD L. MERRITT, City Treasurer.

CITY TREASURER'S OFFICE. SPECIAL ASSESSMENT.
Notice is hereby given that I have received the warrant for collection of the special assessment of 75 per cent of the expense incurred in the construction of a Sanitary Sewer in Tromper Avenue, between O'Neil Street and Cornell Street, commencing at a point 550 feet southerly on Tromper Avenue from the existing sewer in O'Neil Street, running thence through Tromper Avenue to aforesaid sewer. The same has been left with me for collection at my office in the City Hall, in said City, that for thirty days from the date of this notice the said assessment may be paid without additional fees or charges, and that for the twenty succeeding days two per centum additional will be collected. ### Mirror and Powder Puff

It is no mean walk round St. Paul's cathedral; twice round the railings is a mile. The entrance length is not quite 170 yards; it is 63 yards wide at its extreme point, and the towers are 74 yards high. Fifty workmen are constantly employed in the cathedral, and the monuments keep six men always busy. The floor is swept three times a week and washed once a month, and the whole building is cleaned once a year. It used to take an hour to light the gas, and there are eight fire stoves always burning, consuming a ton of coal a day. There are 3,000 chairs in the cathedral, and 200 surplices in the wardrobe, 80 of which are used every Sunday. The half-mile of iron rails in the churchyard, with the seven ornamental gates, weigh 200 tons and cost $11,000. Twenty-six thousand people can stand under the roof.

English Guinea.

Guineas were minted first in 1603 out of gold brought from the Guinea coast. These bore the representation of an elephant on one side and were called guineas. Coins were issued to the value of one guinea, two guineas, five guineas, and half a guinea. At first the guinea was worth only twenty shillings, but as the silver coinage gradually deteriorated, in 1605 the guinea was worth thirty shillings. In 1613 its value fell to twenty-one and sixpence, and to twenty-one shillings in 1617, remaining at this figure until it disappeared from the coinage. The last guinea was coined in 1817, when the sovereign first made its appearance. It is still customary in Great Britain to estimate professional fees, prices of pictures, complimentary subscriptions, and so on, in guineas.

There Are Ants and Ants.

In the various parts of the world you will find widely differing varieties of ants. For instance, in Australia there is an ant that resembles a tiny silver fish. He has most peculiar habits, too. One thing which he is fond of doing is boring his way, with amazing perseverance, through all sorts of thick substances. For instance, this ant will eat his way through the side of a trunk or box, bore straight through whatever is within and emerge on the other side. Behind him he leaves a tiny, clean, straight little tunnel right through the whole thing—wood or wool, or even tin, a pretty substantial material that wise inhabitants have learned to use as a trunk lining.

AT ST. MARY'S

This evening at St. Mary's School Hall the senior Holy Name team will be given a thorough test of its strength, when it meets the fast traveling Ellenville Wanderers. The Wanderers for the past few years have had good basketball quintets and reports from Ellenville are to the effect that this season is not an exception.

The St. Mary's team have beat everything they came up against so far this season. St. Mary's will use the same formidable line-up that has been doing such good work in the past struggles. The Wanderers will probably use Traphagen and Taylor in the forward positions, Wilklow at center and Wright and Rosenberger at guards.

Following the game dancing will be enjoyed, music supplied by Balfe's orchestra.

SUPERVISORS MET BEFORE BANQUET

Committee On Treasurer And Sealer
Reports On Various Matters—
Other Committee Matters.

The board of supervisors met at 7 o'clock Thursday evening and in order that the business on the calendar for the session would be cleared so that the members could make an early start for Lake Katrine, where the annual banquet of the Ulster County Supervisors' Association was to be held, Clerk Henry R. DeWitt speeded up his reading of reports and the motions following so that by 7:30 o'clock a motion to adjourn until Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock was carried.

The committee on county treasurer and sealer reported that they had examined the annual report of County Treasurer William H. Van Etten from November 1, 1922, to October 31, 1923, and upon comparing the same with the books in the county treasurers' office find the same correct. The bonded debt was also found correct. The county treasurer had received 3 per cent interest on deposits with banks during the past year which amounted to over $4,500 against less than $1,000 five years ago. The accounts of the county sealer had also been found correct.

The books of the county treasurer show a number of towns in arrears on account of unpaid and rejected taxes, and we recommend that the following towns raise the amounts set opposite their respective names to reimburse the county treasurer on account of such unpaid and rejected taxes:

Esopus .....	$ 83.81
Gardiner .....	24.94

The committee recommended that there be raised and appropriated as follows:

For court and jury fund .....	$30,000.00
For printing proceedings of Board .....	1,000.00
For county bonds and interest .....	48,125.00
For bounties on foxes, bobcats and jack rabbits .....	300.00
For burial of deceased soldiers and sailors .....	1,500.00
For employees' retirement system .....	504.07

The committee found receipts as follows:
From court fines ..... $2,489.09 || From licenses to carry concealed weapons ..... | 358.00 |
From 2 per cent on returned taxes .....	915.39
From marriage licenses .....	1,519.50
From 7 per cent on returned school taxes .....	593.60
From interest on taxes and bank deposits .....	4,576.61

The committee recommended that the receipts as above be transferred to the general fund by the county treasurer. Also that $12,176.20, receipts from the county clerk and $438.75 receipts from the sheriff's office be transferred to the respective salary accounts of the county clerk and of the sheriff. It was further reported that claims had been examined and found correct and audited as in the column headed allowed, amount claimed $279.20; amount allowed, $279.20 and recommended that warrants be issued in payment of same. Report received and filed, and later resolution to adopt and appropriate moneys as recommended laid over under the rule.

The committee on superintendent of the poor reported finding all accounts correct and recommended that the amounts be apportioned on towns for maintenance by Superintendent Harshorn be levied on the respective towns. That there be levied the following amounts: For contract with Industrial Home, $3,500, outside city; for care of paupers on county farm and county poor house and hospital, $12,000; for asylums and hospitals, $2,310.48; on towns outside city $7,326.10. Received and filed and later resolution to adopt and appropriate amounts recommended laid over under the rule.
